- A. Organizations should publicize their whistleblower policies and procedures to individuals both inside and outside of the organization.
- B. Organizations should implement a clear whistleblower policy that lists every type of misconduct that has ever been reported at the company.
- C. Organizations should emphasize that rules regarding whistleblower protections are only intended for lower-level employees who might be more vulnerable to retaliation.
- D. Organizations should include in their whistleblower policies the specific penalties that people might encounter for refusing to report known misconduct.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed in Depth Explanation:

Publicizing whistleblower policies both internally and externally demonstrates the organization's commitment to transparency and ethical conduct. Best practices include clearly communicating the reporting process, available protections, and encouraging reporting by all employees without fear of retaliation. Including a list of all past misconduct is unnecessary (eliminating A), while emphasizing protections only for lower-level staff (D) or focusing on penalties (C) undermines the policy's intent.
