VMware vSphere 8.x Professional Sample Questions (Q91-Q96):

NEW QUESTION # 91
If a distributed switch uses the "Route based on physical NIC load" load balancing algorithm, what does the mean send or receive utilization of an uplink need to exceed for the flow of traffic to move to the second uplink?

- A. 75 percent of the capacity over a 40 second period
- B. 60 percent of the capacity over a 40 second period
- C. 60 percent of the capacity over a 30 second period
- D. 75 percent of the capacity over a 30 second period

Answer: D

Explanation:
Explanation
The distributed switch calculates uplinks for virtual machines by taking their port ID and the number of uplinks in the NIC team. The distributed switch tests the uplinks every 30 seconds, and if their load exceeds 75 percent of usage, the port ID of the virtual machine with the highest I/O is moved to a different uplink.

NEW QUESTION # 92
An administrator manually configures a reference ESXi host that meets company security standards for vSphere environments. The administrator now needs to apply all of the security standards to every identically configured host across multiple vSphere clusters within a single VMware vCenter instance.
Which four steps would the administrator complete to meet this requirement? (Choose four.)

- A. Import host customization on the reference host.
- B. Reset host customization on the reference host.
- C. Attach the host profile to each cluster that requires the secure configuration.
- D. Export the host profile from vCenter.
- E. Remediate all non-compliant hosts.
- F. Extract the host profile from the reference host
- G. Check the compliance of each host against the host profile.

Answer: C,E,F,G

Explanation:
To apply the security standards from a reference host to other hosts across multiple clusters, the administrator needs to extract a host profile from the reference host, which captures its configuration settings; attach the host profile to each cluster that requires the same configuration; check the compliance of each host against the host profile, which compares their settings; and remediate all non-compliant hosts, which applies the configuration settings from the host profile.

NEW QUESTION # 93
A vSphere cluster has the following vSphere Distributed Resource Scheduler (DRS) group configuration:
* Virtual machine (VM) group named DB
* Host groups named PROD11 and PROD55
The administrator wants to force the VMs in the DB group to run on the hosts in the PROD11 group. However, if all the hosts in PROD55.
Which VM/Host rule must the administrator create to ensure that these requirements are met?

- A. A required rule between the DB group and the PROD11 group
- B. A preferential rule between the DB group and PROD11 group
- C. A preferential rule between the DB group and the PROD55 group
- D. A preferential rule between the DB group and the PROD55 group

Answer: B

Explanation:
Option A is correct because it allows the administrator to create a preferential rule between the DB group and PROD11 group, which will force the VMs in the DB group to run on the hosts in the PROD11 group if possible, but will allow them to run on the hosts in PROD55 group if necessary. Option B is incorrect because it will create a preferential rule between the DB group and PROD55 group, which will force the VMs in the DB group to run on the hosts in PROD55 group if possible, which is not what the administrator wants.
Option C is incorrect because it is the same as option B.
Option D is incorrect because it will create a required rule between the DB group and PROD11 group, which will force the VMs in the DB group to run only on the hosts in PROD11 group and not allow them to run on the hosts in PROD55 group if needed.

NEW QUESTION # 94

An administrator runs a two-node vSphere cluster, which contains two domain controller virtual machines (VMs). The administrator wants to ensure that VMs run on separate hosts without interfering with normal maintenance operations.
How should the administrator configure Distributed Resource Scheduler (DRS)?

- A. Create a 'Virtual Machines to Virtual Machines' anti-affinity rule.
- B. Create a 'Should run Virtual Machines to Hosts' anti-affinity rule.
- C. Create a 'Must run Virtual Machines to Hosts' anti-affinity rule.
- D. Create a 'Virtual Machines to Virtual Machines' dependency rule.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 95

After a recent unexplained peak in virtual machine (VM) CPU usage, an administrator is asked to monitor the VM performance for a recurrence of the issue.
Which two tools can the administrator use? (Choose two.)

- A. Direct Console User Interface (DCUI)
- B. vCenter Management Interface
- C. ESXi Shell
- D. vSphere Performance Charts
- E. vCenter Command Line Interface

Answer: C,D

Explanation:
Explanation
To monitor the VM performance for a recurrence of the issue, the administrator can use vSphere Performance Charts, which provide graphical views of various performance metrics for VMs and other objects; or ESXi Shell, which provides command-line access to ESXi hosts and allows running various commands to collect performance data.
