Adobe Experience Manager DevOps Engineer Expert Sample Questions (Q87-Q92):

NEW QUESTION # 87

During the Non-Production pipeline, an issue occurs with a Security Rating of B. Based on the Review Results, all critical and mandatory tests passed. What should the DevOps engineer do to proceed with the build?

- A. Reject the deployment and restart it again.
- B. Bypass testing for security and proceed to performance.
- C. Reconfigure the pipeline to pull from another branch.
- D. Switch on Override failed results and submit.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Similar to Code Coverage, a Security Rating of 'B' in Cloud Manager usually results in a "Partial Pass" state (3-tier rating system where critical vulnerabilities cause outright failures, but lower-tier warnings cause partial passes). Since all critical and mandatory tests passed, the pipeline pauses and waits for user intervention. The DevOps engineer (with the Deployment Manager role) can proceed with the build by navigating to the execution details, selecting the option to "Override failed results," and submitting the decision to resume the pipeline.

NEW QUESTION # 88

An enterprise customer of AEM as a Cloud Service sets up Federated SSO in Admin Console using Azure Active Directory. The enterprise customer also needs to manage AEM access and permissions according to user groups defined in Azure AD. Which two actions should the DevOps engineer take? (Choose two.)

- A. Configure the Oak External Login Module to connect to Azure AD over LDAP v3.
- B. Install and configure User Sync from Adobe on a server within the corporate network.
- C. Define AEM groups with special access to immutable content paths using repoint scripts.
- D. Manually add a catch-all AD group to the "AEM Users" Product Profile in Admin Console.
- E. Use the "Add users by CSV" feature in Admin Console to handle an export file from an Azure AD.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

To automate user and group management between an enterprise directory (like Azure AD) and AEM as a Cloud Service, direct LDAP connections to AEM are no longer supported. Instead, identity is managed centrally in the Adobe Admin Console. The DevOps engineer must deploy the Adobe User Sync Tool (UST) on a secure corporate server (Option E). The UST automatically syncs AD groups to the Admin Console.

Furthermore, to ensure these federated users can actually log into AEM, the engineer must map a catch-all Azure AD group to the baseline "AEM Users" Product Profile within the Admin Console (Option B).

- B. The properties of the OSGi config must be passed using system properties to the Quickstart on startup.
