NEW QUESTION # 18
Which limitations apply to restricted users in SAP HANA Cloud? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. They only have full SQL access via the SQL console.
- B. They can only connect to the database using HTTP/HTTPS.
- C. They can only create objects in their own database schema.
- D. They cannot create objects in the database.
- E. They cannot connect via ODBC or JDBC.

Answer: B,D,E

Explanation:
Restricted users in SAP HANA Cloud face specific limitations to enhance security and control access. They can only connect to the database using HTTP/HTTPS protocols, typically via web-based interfaces, ensuring that connections are secure and aligned with cloud security standards. They are prohibited from connecting via ODBC or JDBC, which prevents direct database access through external applications, reducing the risk of unauthorized data extraction. Additionally, restricted users cannot create objects in the database, such as tables or views, limiting their ability to modify the database structure and maintaining data integrity. Contrary to option A, restricted users do not have full SQL access via the SQL console; their SQL capabilities are limited. Option E is incorrect, as restricted users cannot create objects at all, even in their own schema. These restrictions ensure that restricted users, often used for read-only or limited-access scenarios, operate within a tightly controlled environment, supporting SAP HANA Cloud's security model.
