CompTIA Data+ Exam (2025) Sample Questions (Q58-Q63):

NEW QUESTION # 58

Which of the following best describes the function of a data type?

- A. To identify the program needed to open a file
- B. To make the addition of individual records simpler
- C. To provide a generic identifier for files used in analysis
- D. To differentiate the real value of the field in its context

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question falls under the Data Concepts and Environments domain, focusing on the purpose of data types in data management. Data types define how data is stored and interpreted.

* To provide a generic identifier for files used in analysis (Option A): Data types apply to fields within datasets, not files.

* To identify the program needed to open a file (Option B): File extensions (e.g., .csv) identify programs, not data types.

* To differentiate the real value of the field in its context (Option C): Data types (e.g., integer, string, date) define how a field's value is interpreted (e.g., "123" as a number vs. text), ensuring its real meaning in context, making this the correct answer.

* To make the addition of individual records simpler (Option D): Data types don't directly simplify record addition; they ensure proper data handling.

The DA0-002 Data Concepts and Environments domain includes understanding "data schemas and dimensions," and data types ensure fields are interpreted correctly in their context.

NEW QUESTION # 59

Which of the following best describes a characteristic of a Boolean?

- A. Must be a character
- B. Must be numeric
- C. Must be system-created
- D. Must be two values only

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 60

A data analyst is following up on a recent, company-wide data audit of customer invoice data. Which of the following is the best option for the analyst to use?

- A. PCI DSS
- B. ISO
- C. GDPR
- D. PII

Answer: C

Explanation:

This question falls under the Data Governance domain of CompTIA Data+ DA0-002, which includes understanding compliance frameworks for data audits, especially for customer data. The scenario involves a data audit of customer invoice data, which likely contains personal information, making privacy regulations relevant.

* PCI DSS (Option A): PCI DSS (Payment Card Industry Data Security Standard) applies specifically to payment card data, not general customer invoice data unless credit card details are involved, which isn't specified.

* GDPR (Option B): GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) is a comprehensive privacy regulation for handling personal data of EU citizens, including customer invoice data, which may contain PII like names and addresses. It's the most relevant for a company-wide data audit.

* ISO (Option C): ISO standards (e.g., ISO 27001) relate to information security management but are not specific to customer data privacy audits.

* PII (Option D): PII (Personally Identifiable Information) is a concept, not a framework or tool for conducting an audit.

The DA0-002 Data Governance domain emphasizes "identifying PII and data privacy concepts," and GDPR is the most appropriate framework for auditing customer data to ensure compliance with privacy laws.

NEW QUESTION # 61

A database administrator needs to implement security triggers for an organization's user information database.

Which of the following data classifications is the administrator most likely using? (Select two).

- A. Private
- B. Public
- C. Encrypted
- D. Non-Sensitive
- E. Sensitive
- F. Open

Answer: A,E

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Data Governance domain, focusing on data classification for security purposes.

User information databases typically contain personal data, and security triggers (e.g., alerts for unauthorized access) require classifying data to determine protection levels.

* Public (Option A): Public data is openly accessible (e.g., company brochures), not suitable for user information requiring security triggers.

* Open (Option B): Open isn't a standard data classification; it's similar to public and not applicable here.

* Sensitive (Option C): Sensitive data includes information that, if exposed, could cause harm (e.g., user emails, roles), which fits user information and warrants security triggers.

* Non-Sensitive (Option D): Non-sensitive data doesn't require protection, so it wouldn't need security triggers.

* Private (Option E): Private data includes PII (e.g., names, addresses) in user information databases, requiring security measures like triggers to protect against breaches.

* Encrypted (Option F): Encrypted refers to a data state, not a classification; data can be classified as private or sensitive and then encrypted.

The DA0-002 Data Governance domain includes "data quality control concepts," such as classifying data to apply appropriate security measures. Sensitive and private classifications are most relevant for user information.

NEW QUESTION # 62

Which of the following best enables the retrieval and manipulation of data that is stored in a relational database?

- A. SQL
- B. XML
- C. JavaScript
- D. Excel

Answer: A

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Data Concepts and Environments domain, focusing on tools for interacting with relational databases. The task is to identify the best method for retrieving and manipulating data.

* XML (Option A): XML is a data format, not a language for retrieving or manipulating database data.

* SQL (Option B): SQL (Structured Query Language) is specifically designed for querying and manipulating data in relational databases (e.g., SELECT, UPDATE), making it the best choice.

* Excel (Option C): Excel can analyze data but isn't designed for direct database manipulation.

* JavaScript (Option D): JavaScript is a programming language for web development, not optimized for relational database operations.

The DA0-002 Data Concepts and Environments domain includes understanding "different types of databases," and SQL is the standard language for relational database operations.
