EXPLANATION OF YOUR ASVAB PERCENTILE SCORES Your ASVAB percentile scores are plotted in the graph. These are the percentages of examinees in the three highest score categories to the left of the graph. Percentile scores then have been converted to 10th grade standard scores. These are the scores that 50% of students at your grade. For example, if a percentile score of 81 is converted to a 10th grade standard score, the student scored the same as 81% of all students at that level of any 10th grade class. For purposes of career planning, learning your relative standing in these three categories is important. You can use these scores to determine your cover or educational choices. There are indications of what you can expect to earn in different areas. Various job scores in light of your educational choices can be used to determine what areas you can expect areas that you might achieve greater success. You can use the Career Exploration Test to evaluate your knowledge and skills in other general areas. These scores are converted to 12th grade standard scores. These are the scores that 50% of students at your grade. These scores will help you decide what areas you should consider and where your greatest skills and greatest potential lie.
EXPLANATION OF YOUR ASVAB STANDARD SCORES Your ASVAB results are reported as standard scores. These scores are converted to 12th grade standard scores as indicated by the "A" in the accompanying test code. These scores are the scores that 50% of students at that level of education have. If you took the ASVAB at a lower level of education, your scores would be different. Many things such as age, previous training, and education affect your ASVAB scores. This difference is shown with gray pencil bands in the graph. These bands are centered on the ASVAB test and encompass band your grade level. These scores are used to identify areas of your strength. Utilizing these bands correctly can help you identify areas of your strength and areas of your weakness. These scores are also useful in determining your educational needs. If the scores are below the normative, you may need to take additional steps to improve your skills in these areas. ASVAB is an aptitude test. It is not an achievement test. It is not a measure of your skills and abilities or a personal prediction of future success. A high ASVAB score does not guarantee success. A low ASVAB score does not guarantee failure. A failure educational or career choice is not necessarily the result of a low ASVAB score. This is because the ASVAB is not a test of what you have learned. It is a test of what you know. You may never work with sharp equipment or tools, yet you can function with the tools and manage
USE OF INFORMATION Personal identity information (name, birth date, address, telephone number, and social security number) and test results may be released to any agency, authority, or organization that has a valid need to know. The Defense Forces, the Coast Guard, and the Naval Reserve are the only organizations that have a valid need to know. The use of information is limited to the purpose for which it was collected. The DoD has no authority to use or disclose this information for any other purpose.
MILITARY ENTRANCE SCORE The Military Entrance Test (called AFQT) which stands for the Armed Forces Qualifying Test, is used to determine your qualifications for entry into the Army, Navy, Air Force, or the Coast Guard. The Military Entrance Test is produced on a general level. This score is used to determine if you are qualified for the job in military occupations. Your score is converted to a percentile score and a 10th grade standard score and converted to a general AFQT score.
