Which approach aligns to approval of requirements at the end of a phase?

- A. Prioritization
- B. Adaptive
- C. Predictive
- D. Modelling

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 151

Which activity is a business analyst (BA) performing when ensuring that a set of requirements is developed with enough detail to be usable by a particular stakeholder?

- A. Specifying requirements
- B. Verifying requirements
- C. Validating requirements
- D. Eliciting requirements

Answer: A

Explanation:

When a business analyst ensures that a set of requirements is developed with enough detail to be usable by a particular stakeholder, they are performing the activity of specifying requirements. This involves the analysis, synthesis, and refinement of elicitation results into requirements and designs that are sufficiently detailed for stakeholders to understand and use. Specifying requirements is a critical step in the requirements development process as it translates the raw information gathered during elicitation into a structured format that can be shared, reviewed, and implemented.

References: The BABOK Guide v3 outlines the importance of specifying and modeling requirements as part of the Requirements Analysis and Design Definition knowledge area. It emphasizes that specifying requirements is about ensuring that they are articulated with enough clarity and detail for stakeholders to assess them for correctness and to support subsequent implementation work<sup>12</sup>.

NEW QUESTION # 152

To ensure that "all requirements and designs align to business requirements" is the purpose of which task?

- A. Conduct elicitation
- B. Validate requirements
- C. Assess risks
- D. Verify requirements

Answer: B

Explanation:

The purpose of the Validate Requirements task is to ensure that all requirements and designs align to business requirements, meet stakeholder needs, and support the business goals. It focuses on ensuring that the proposed solution addresses the underlying business problem or opportunity.

BABOK Reference - Task: Validate Requirements (Section 7.6):

"The purpose of Validate Requirements is to ensure that all requirements and designs align to the business requirements and support the delivery of needed value."

NEW QUESTION # 153

The likelihood that the requirement will change because it requires further analysis is termed as:

- A. benefit.
- B. dependency.
- C. penalty.
- D. stability.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The inputs required to prepare for elicitation are primarily focused on understanding the business needs and the stakeholder engagement approach. This involves recognizing the business requirements to define the scope and purpose of the elicitation activities and comprehending the stakeholders' collaboration and communication needs to plan the elicitation activity effectively.

References: The information is verified as per the Business Analysis Learning documents, specifically from the BABOK Guide and resources provided by IIBA<sup>12</sup>.

This may occur because as development progresses and prototypes are developed, customers are able to more clearly see problems with the original plan and make necessary course corrections.

NEW QUESTION # 154

The likelihood that the requirement will change because it requires further analysis is termed as:

- A. stability.
- B. dependency.
- C. benefit.
- D. penalty.

Answer: A

Explanation:

In the context of business analysis, the term "stability" refers to the likelihood that a requirement will change due to the need for further analysis or because stakeholders have not reached a consensus. Stability is a critical attribute to assess as it impacts the prioritization, planning, and management of requirements. Requirements with low stability may require additional attention, analysis, or engagement with stakeholders to clarify, refine, and agree upon the needs to ensure they are well-understood and stable enough to be implemented effectively without significant changes in the future.
