Medical Tests American Academy of Professional Coders: Certified Professional Coder Sample Questions (Q51-Q56):

NEW QUESTION # 51

Age, gender, height, and race are the four key factors in calculating a person's forced vital lung capacity (FVC). If FVC is calculated to be 3.00 L and anything under 80% is abnormal, what would be the cutoff value to a normal FVC?

- A. 2.0 L
- B. 2.4 L
- C. 2.8 L
- D. 3.2 L

Answer: B

Explanation:

A forced vital capacity test is the maximum amount of air that can be exhaled from the lungs and is used to determine whether there is an obstruction in the lungs. To calculate the abnormality, take 0.8 (80%), and multiply it by 3.00 (liters). Anything less than 2.4 L would be considered an abnormal result in this scenario.

NEW QUESTION # 52

A female patient with type II diabetes, asthma, and hypertension is admitted with complaints of chest pain. Testing rules out heart attack and other underlying conditions as the cause. Which diagnosis codes should be listed on the discharge note?

- A. Z03.89
- B. R07.9, E11.9, J45.909, 110
- C. Z03.89
- D. R07.9

Answer: B

Explanation:

The primary diagnosis on an inpatient record would be the primary reason the patient was admitted. In this case, because a definitive diagnosis could not be confirmed, the symptom of chest pain would be selected instead. The previously confirmed chronic conditions would also be coded because they affect the management of inpatient care. Diabetes would be coded to an unspecified code because the term "with" implies a causal relationship between the conditions that is not implicitly documented. Per ICD-IO-CM guidelines, a rule-out code is not assigned when "any signs or symptoms related to the suspected condition are present."

NEW QUESTION # 53

A patient is referred to a radiology clinic with a diagnosis of chest bruising. A radiologist who works for the clinic performs a 3-view x-ray on the patient's ribcage bilaterally. The radiologist interprets images and determines that there is a right-sided stress fracture to one rib. Which ICD-IO-CM and CPT codes should be reported for this encounter?

- A. 71110-26, M84.48XA
- B. 71110, S22.31Y.4
- C. 71110, M84.48XA
- D. 71110-26, S22.31Y.A

Answer: C

Explanation:

Modifier 26, indicating only a professional component of the study, would be inappropriate because the radiologist who obtained the images and interpreted the results works for the clinic that owns the x-ray machines. By reporting the procedure without a modifier, the clinic is requesting 100% reimbursement of the study, which includes the technical and professional components. When searching the index in the ICD-IO-CM book a stress fracture is related to fatigue and is coded as a bone disorder as opposed to an injury.

NEW QUESTION # 54

What would NOT be included in a global obstetrical package?

- A. A patient with anemia comes in to check hemoglobin levels.
- B. Contraception following delivery is discussed at length.
- C. Sutures are removed from a first-degree perineal laceration during the delivery.
- D. A patient complains of flu-like symptoms and is prescribed an antibiotic.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The treatment of flu-like symptoms is considered a non-obstetric service, and a separate E/M can be billed for reimbursement. All other answer choices would be included in the global obstetrical package as routine care.

NEW QUESTION # 55

Code the following adverse effect:

Initial encounter of drug-induced tremors that was caused by Cyclosporin the patient takes for anemia. The anemia is caused by a current diagnosis of colon cancer.

- A. C18.9, D63.O, G25.1, T45.1X5A
- B. T45.1X5A G25.1, C18.9, D63.O
- C. D63.O, C18.9, T45.1X5A, G25.1
- D. G25.1, T45.1X5A, C18.9, D63.O

Answer: D

Explanation:

The correct sequencing of the code would be as follows: side effect of the drug, medication that caused the adverse effect and the underlying condition for why the drug is being taken. In this scenario, because the anemia is caused by a malignancy, ICD-IO-CM guidelines state that the malignancy should be the principal diagnosis "followed by the appropriate code for the anemia (such as D63.0, Anemia in neoplastic disease)."
