Nutanix Certified Professional - Database Automation (NCP-DB) v6.10 Sample Questions (Q227-Q232):

NEW QUESTION # 227
An administrator needs to perform patching on a MongoDB server cluster within an NDB environment.
How should the administrator accomplish this task?

- A. Apply the patch to all nodes at once.
- B. Perform a rolling upgrade, applying the patch to the secondary members first, followed by the primary member.
- C. Perform a rolling upgrade, applying the patch to the primary member first, followed by the secondary members.
- D. Disable the replica set while patching.

Answer: B

Explanation:
The administrator should perform a rolling upgrade, applying the patch to the secondary members first, followed by the primary member, to accomplish the task of patching a MongoDB server cluster within an NDB environment. A rolling upgrade is a method of applying patches or updates to a cluster without downtime or interruption of service. The administrator can use the NDB patching feature to perform a rolling upgrade on a MongoDB server cluster, which consists of a primary member and one or more secondary members that form a replica set. The NDB patching feature allows the administrator to select the software profile version, the database parameters profile, and the network profile for the patching operation.

NEW QUESTION # 228
Within NDB, an administrator needs to register a PostgreSQL database server VM with a database. Where should the database data and log files be located in order to successfully complete this task?

- A. On a separate mount point
- B. On the same disk as the operating system
- C. On the same disk as the binary installation
- D. On the same mount point

Answer: A

Explanation:
To register a PostgreSQL database server VM with a database on NDB, the database data and log files must be located on a separate mount point from the operating system and the binary installation.
This is because NDB uses the mount point as the identifier for the database server VM and the database. If the data and log files are on the same mount point as the operating system or the binary installation, NDB will not be able to recognize them as a valid database server VM or database. Therefore, the administrator should create a separate mount point for the data and log files and specify it during the registration process.

NEW QUESTION # 229
Before registering a SQL Server VM with NDB, an administrator must first verify what is enabled?

- A. Remote Management (WinRM)
- B. Secure Shell (SSH)
- C. Windows PowerShell
- D. Remote Desktop (RDP)

Answer: A

Explanation:
Before registering a SQL Server VM with Nutanix Database Service (NDB), the administrator must ensure that the VM is configured to allow NDB to communicate with and manage it. For SQL Server VMs running on Windows, NDB relies on Windows Remote Management (WinRM) to facilitate remote administration, discovery, and management tasks. WinRM is a Microsoft protocol that enables secure communication between the NDB control plane and the Windows-based database server VM. It must be enabled and properly configured (e.g., with HTTP or HTTPS listeners and appropriate firewall rules) to allow NDB to register the VM and perform operations like provisioning, patching, or cloning.

NEW QUESTION # 230
An administrator needs to migrate a large 1/0-intensive database that doesn't support multi-disk layout.
How should the storage be provisioned with Era to support the database while optimizing performance?

- A. Volume Group
- B. Storage Spaces
- C. Volume Group with Load Balancing
- D. vDisk based provisioning

Answer: A

Explanation:
In Nutanix Era, a Volume Group is the recommended storage provisioning method for a large I/O- intensive database that doesn't support a multi-disk layout. A Volume Group in Nutanix Era is a collection of disks that can be managed as a single entity, providing a way to aggregate the storage capacity of multiple disks into a larger storage unit. This allows for better performance optimization as it enables the database to leverage the combined I/O capabilities of all the disks in the group. It's important to note that while other options like Load Balancing, Storage Spaces, and vDisk based provisioning can also be used in certain scenarios, a Volume Group is specifically designed for situations where a single, high-performance storage unit is required.

NEW QUESTION # 231
What behavior is observed when applying patch profiles as a Super Admin?

- A. Deprecated patches can be applied.
- B. Hidden patches can be applied.
- C. Published patches cannot be applied if currently deprecated.
- D. Unpublished patches can be applied.

Answer: C

Explanation:
In the context of Nutanix Database Automation (NCP-DB), a Super Admin has the authority to apply patch profiles. However, if a patch is marked as deprecated, even if it's published, it cannot be applied. This is because deprecation is a status that indicates the patch is outdated or has been superseded by a newer version, and thus should not be used. This behavior ensures that only the most up-to-date and secure patches are applied to the system, maintaining the integrity and security of the database environment.
