ISTQB Certified Tester Foundation Level (CTFL v4.0) Sample Questions (Q183-Q188):

NEW QUESTION # 183

Which of the following does MOT describe a reason why testing is necessary?

- A. The acquisition of test automation tools was based on the assumption that it will be used in all projects
- B. The customer decided that 100% branch coverage shall be achieved
- C. For avionics and pharmaceutical systems software testing is mandated by standards
- D. The risks associated with delivering the system are far higher than the cost of testing

Answer: A

Explanation:

Testing is necessary for various reasons, such as:

* To detect defects and failures that may affect the quality, performance, reliability or security of a software product or system

* To verify that a software product or system meets its specified requirements, expectations and standards

* To validate that a software product or system fulfills its intended purpose and satisfies its stakeholders' needs

* To provide information and feedback about the status and risks of a software product or system

* To comply with regulations or contractual obligations that mandate testing for certain types of software products or systems The following statements describe some reasons why testing is necessary:

* A) The customer decided that 100% branch coverage shall be achieved. This is a reason why testing is necessary, as it reflects a contractual obligation or a quality standard that requires testing to measure and achieve a certain level of code coverage.

* C) For avionics and pharmaceutical systems software testing is mandated by standards. This is a reason why testing is necessary, as it reflects a regulation or a compliance requirement that mandates testing for certain types of software products or systems that have high safety or security risks.

* D) The risks associated with delivering the system are far higher than the cost of testing. This is a reason why testing is necessary, as it reflects a risk-based approach that considers testing as an investment to reduce the probability and impact of potential failures or defects. The following statement does not describe a reason why testing is necessary:

* B) The acquisition of test automation tools was based on the assumption that it will be used in all projects. This is not a reason why testing is necessary, as it reflects a business decision or a resource allocation that does not justify the need or purpose of testing. Test automation tools are not always suitable or beneficial for all projects, and testing can be performed with or without test automation tools. iv. Testers, once they have acquired technical development or business skills, leave the testing team.

- A. i and ii
- B. i and iii
- C. ii and iv
- D. ii and iii

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Agile teams, close collaboration among testers and other team members can lead to organizational risks such as: ii. These risks highlight the potential issues of diminished testing perspective and team turnover when testers integrate closely with developers and other roles.

NEW QUESTION # 185

Which of the following is a key characteristic of informal reviews?

- A. Metrics analysis
- B. Kick-off meeting
- C. Individual preparation
- D. Low cost

Answer: D

Explanation:

A key characteristic of informal reviews is low cost. Informal reviews are a type of review that does not follow a formal process or have any formal documentation. Informal reviews are usually performed by individuals or small groups of peers or colleagues who have some knowledge or interest in the product under review. Informal reviews can be done at any time and for any purpose, such as checking for errors, clarifying doubts, sharing ideas, etc. Informal reviews have low cost, as they do not require much time, effort, or resources to conduct. The other options are not key characteristics of informal reviews. Kick-off meeting is a characteristic of formal reviews, such as inspections or walkthroughs. Kick-off meeting is a meeting that is held before the review process starts, where the roles and responsibilities of the participants are defined, the objectives and scope of the review are agreed, and the logistics and schedule of the review are planned.

Individual preparation is a characteristic of formal reviews, such as inspections or walkthroughs. Individual preparation is an activity that is performed by the reviewers before the review meeting, where they examine the product under review and identify any issues or questions that need to be discussed or resolved during the review meeting. Metrics analysis is a characteristic of formal reviews, such as inspections or walkthroughs.

Metrics analysis is an activity that is performed after the review process is completed, where the data and results of the review are collected and analyzed to measure the effectiveness and efficiency of the review, as well as to identify any improvement actions or lessons learned for future reviews. NEW QUESTION # 186

The following part of a business process flow is specified; REPEAT (book a bill) UNTIL (User presses Cancel). How many test cases are necessary in order to achieve 100% branch coverage of the process flow?

- A. Infinite
- B. 0
- C. 1
- D. 2

Answer: C

Explanation:

To achieve 100% branch coverage of the process flow, we need to test both the true and false outcomes of the condition (User presses Cancel). Branch coverage is a type of structural testing that measures how many decision outcomes in a program have been executed by a test suite. Branch coverage can be used to assess the adequacy or completeness of a test suite.

To test the true outcome of the condition, we need a test case that simulates the user pressing Cancel after booking a bill. This test case will exit the loop and end the process flow.

To test the false outcome of the condition, we need a test case that simulates the user not pressing Cancel after booking a bill. This test case will repeat the loop and book another bill.

Therefore, we need at least two test cases to achieve 100% branch coverage of the process flow. One test case for each possible outcome of the condition.
