ISTQB Certified Tester - Performance Testing Sample Questions (Q17-Q22):

NEW QUESTION # 17

Which of the following is an advantage of using performance monitoring tools?

- A. They more easily identify and report multi-threading problems.

- B. They proactively compile metrics from server logs.
- C. They can proactively detect denial-of-service (DoS) attacks.
- D. They can prevent malicious behavior.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Performance monitoring tools collect real-time and historical performance data, particularly from server logs, application metrics, and infrastructure monitoring. This allows testers to analyze performance trends efficiently.

Option A is incorrect because monitoring tools do not prevent malicious behavior but may detect it.

Option C is incorrect since identifying multi-threading issues is typically done through profiling tools rather than performance monitors.

Option D is incorrect as DoS attack detection falls under security testing.

NEW QUESTION # 18

You are managing the testing efforts of an existing distributed system that manages inventories of automobile and light truck tires from multiple warehouses across the country. The system is being enhanced to track incoming restocking shipments at the point of entry to the warehouse and outbound sales shipments at the point of shipment from the warehouse, all of which are executed in real-time.

System loads traditionally peak on Mondays due to built-up demand from the previous weekend.

You are preparing a presentation to the business stakeholders, outlining your performance testing strategy.

Which of the following is appropriate to present to this audience?

- A. A comprehensive list of support staff to be available during performance testing, including key members of the application development team
- B. Established HTTP response per second goals that will have acceptable minimum, maximum, and average response times
- C. A test plan that includes specific technical specifications for the computing hardware to be used for performance testing
- D. The risks that may exist due to platform differences between the test environment and the production environment

Answer: D

Explanation:

Business stakeholders are most concerned with risks that affect deployment and production stability. The primary risk in performance testing is that the test environment may differ from production, leading to misleading test results.

Option A (HTTP response goals) is too technical for a business stakeholder audience.

Option B (Hardware specifications) is relevant for technical teams, not business stakeholders.

Option C (Support staff details) is a logistical aspect, not a key performance testing risk for business decision-makers.

NEW QUESTION # 19

What challenge must be considered when using crowds to emulate load generation?

- A. The load generation method is less sensitive to changes in the system under test.
- B. The load generation will be difficult to reproduce.
- C. This type of load generation is more suitable for mainframe applications.
- D. This technique is more precise than other methods of load generation.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Crowd-based load generation relies on real users from different locations, making test conditions highly variable. This makes it difficult to reproduce the same test scenario multiple times under identical conditions.

Option B (Less sensitive to changes) is incorrect because crowd-based load is highly sensitive to external conditions (network, device types, etc.).

Option C (Suitable for mainframe applications) is incorrect because crowd-based load testing is typically used for web and cloud applications, not mainframes.

Option D (More precise than other methods) is incorrect because crowd-based load testing lacks precision due to real-world inconsistencies.

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which of the following can provide measurements for both individual and aggregated elements within a single performance test?

- A. Aggregated metrics
- B. Nested transactions
- C. Process optimization tracking
- D. Measuring underlying transactions

Answer: B

Explanation:

Nested transactions allow performance tests to capture both individual and aggregated elements by grouping multiple related transactions and measuring their cumulative impact.

Option A (Aggregated metrics) provides summaries but lacks insight into individual elements.

Option B (Process optimization tracking) focuses on business process improvement, not test metrics.

Option C (Measuring underlying transactions) focuses only on individual transactions.

NEW QUESTION # 21

Which of the following is a static performance test?

- A. Usability test of the user interface
- B. Formal signature approval by the end users
- C. Evaluation of the test execution skills of the testers
- D. Review of the network architecture

Answer: D

Explanation:

A static performance test is a non-execution-based review that analyzes system architecture, network configurations, and other elements that affect system performance before execution.

Option A (Usability test) is not a static performance test but rather a functional or UX evaluation.

Option B (Evaluation of testers' skills) is unrelated to performance testing.

Option D (Formal signature approval) is an administrative task and not a static test.
