NEW QUESTION # 42

A provider configuration block is required in every Terraform configuration.

Example:

☐

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: A

Explanation:

A provider configuration block is not required in every Terraform configuration. A provider configuration block can be omitted if its contents would otherwise be empty. Terraform assumes an empty default configuration for any provider that is not explicitly configured. However, some providers may require some configuration arguments (such as endpoint URLs or cloud regions) before they can be used. A provider's documentation should list which configuration arguments it expects. For providers distributed on the Terraform Registry, versioned documentation is available on each provider's page, via the "Documentation" link in the provider's header.

NEW QUESTION # 43

You are writing a child Terraform module that provisions an AWS instance. You want to reference the IP address returned by the child module in the root configuration. You name the instance resource "main".

Which of these is the correct way to define the output value?

- A. ☐
- B. ☐
- C. ☒
- D. ☐

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 44

What does Terraform not reference when running a terraform apply -refresh-only ?

- A. Credentials
- B. Terraform resource definitions in configuration files
- C. Cloud provider
- D. State file

Answer: B

Explanation:

When running a terraform apply -refresh-only, Terraform does not reference the configuration files, but only the state file, credentials, and cloud provider. The purpose of this command is to update the state file with the current status of the real resources, without making any changes to them.
