ISACA Certified Data Privacy Solutions Engineer Sample Questions (Q11-Q16):

NEW QUESTION # 11

When can data subjects be prohibited from withdrawing consent for processing their personal data?

- A. When the data is being archived in the public interest
- B. When there is an absence of overriding legitimate grounds
- C. When the processing is unlawful
- D. When the data is no longer necessary

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), data subjects have the right to withdraw their consent for processing their personal data at any time. However, this right does not apply when the processing is necessary for archiving purposes in the public interest, scientific or historical research purposes or statistical purposes, in accordance with Article 89(1) of the GDPR.

NEW QUESTION # 12

Which of the following is the MOST important consideration when determining retention periods for personal data?

- A. Data classification standards
- B. Storage capacity available for retained data
- C. Notice provided to customers during data collection
- D. Sectoral best practices for the industry

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 13

Which of the following is MOST important to ensure when developing a business case for the procurement of a new IT system that will process and store personal information?

- A. Data protection requirements are included.
- B. Security controls are clearly defined.
- C. A risk assessment has been completed.
- D. The system architecture is clearly defined.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Reference:

The most important thing to ensure when developing a business case for the procurement of a new IT system that will process and store personal information is that data protection requirements are included. This means that the organization should identify and analyze the privacy risks and impacts of the new IT system, and determine the appropriate measures to mitigate or eliminate them. The data protection requirements should cover aspects such as data minimization, consent, access, rectification, erasure, portability, security, breach notification, etc. The data protection requirements should also align with the organization's privacy policies and applicable privacy regulations. NEW QUESTION # 14

A global financial institution is implementing data masking technology to protect personal data used for testing purposes in non-production environments. Which of the following is the GREATEST challenge in this situation?

- A. Personal data across the various interconnected systems cannot be easily identified.
- B. Complex relationships within and across systems must be retained for testing.
- C. Data masking tools are complex and difficult to implement.
- D. Access to personal data is not strictly controlled in development and testing environments.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 15

Which of the following is MOST important to establish within a data storage policy to protect data privacy?

- A. Irreversible disposal
- B. Collection limitation
- C. Data quality assurance (QA)
- D. Data redaction

Answer: A

Explanation:

Irreversible disposal is a process of removing or destroying data from a storage device or media to prevent unauthorized access or recovery of the data. Irreversible disposal is the most important thing to establish within a data storage policy to protect data privacy, as it reflects the principles of data minimization and storage limitation, which require limiting the collection, storage and processing of personal data to what is necessary and relevant for the intended purposes, and deleting or disposing of personal data when it is no longer needed or justified. Irreversible disposal also helps to reduce the privacy risks and costs associated with data storage and retention, such as data breaches, unauthorized access, misuse or loss of data. The other options are not as important as irreversible disposal in protecting data privacy within a data storage policy. Data redaction is a technique that removes or obscures sensitive or confidential information from a document or file, but it does not address the issue of data retention or deletion. Data quality assurance (QA) is a process of ensuring that the data meets the standards and specifications of accuracy, completeness, consistency and reliability, but it does not address the issue of data retention or deletion. Collection limitation is a principle that requires limiting the collection of personal data to what is necessary and relevant for the intended purposes, but it does not address the issue of data retention or deletion¹, p. 75-76 Reference: 1: CDPSE Review Manual (Digital Version)
