CompTIA Cloud+ (2025) Sample Questions (Q141-Q146):

NEW QUESTION # 141

A SaaS provider introduced new software functionality for customers as part of quarterly production enhancements. After an update is implemented, users cannot locate certain transactions from an inbound integration. During the investigation, the application owner finds the following error in the logs:

Error: REST API - Deprecated call is no longer supported in this release.

Which of the following is the best action for the application owner to take to resolve the issue?

- A. Revert the application to the last stable quarterly release.
- B. Ask the users to monitor the quarterly updates.
- C. Update the custom integration to use a supported function.
- D. Include the custom integration in the quarterly testing scope.

Answer: C

Explanation:

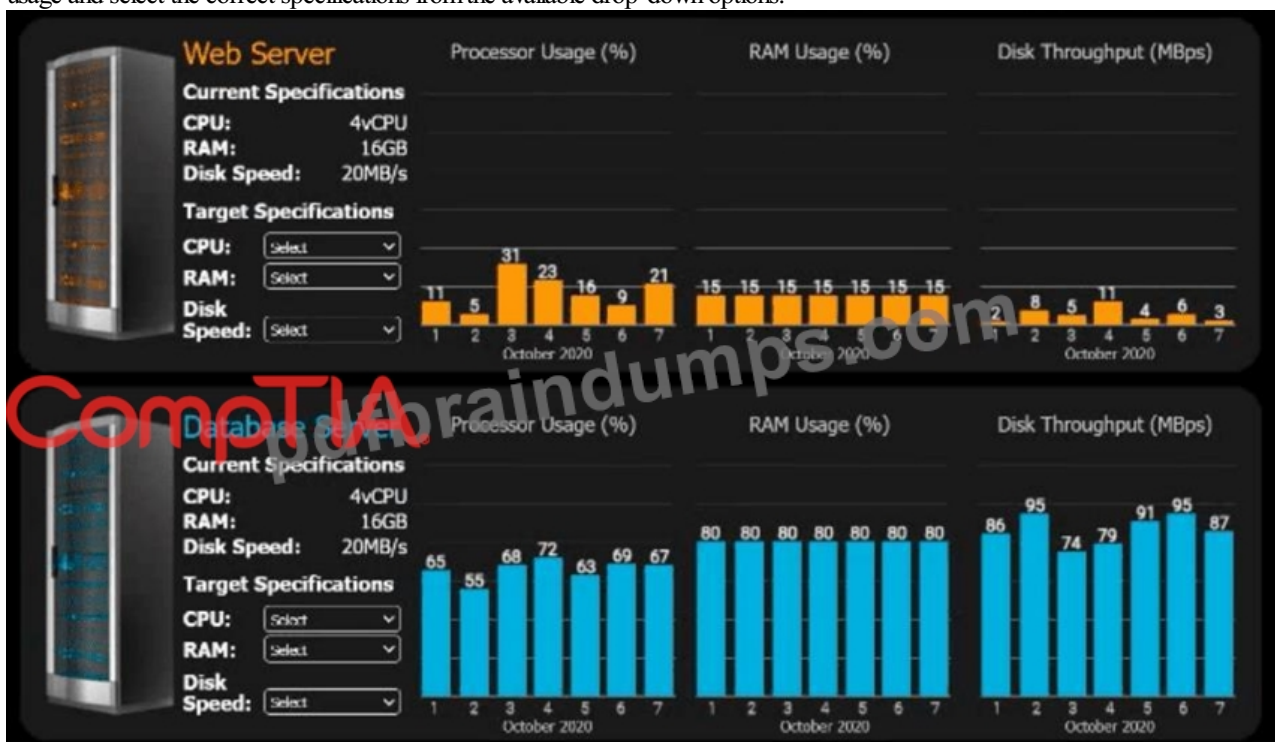

The error message indicates that the SaaS provider has deprecated a function that was previously called by the custom integration. The best action for the application owner to take is to update the custom integration to use a function that is supported in the current release. This is a direct solution to the problem and ensures the custom integration conforms to the updated SaaS provider's API. References: Based on the error message provided and standard practices for dealing with deprecated API calls in a SaaS environment.

NEW QUESTION # 142

An e-commerce company is migrating from an on-premises private cloud environment to a public cloud IaaS environment. #### NEW QUESTION # 143

A cloud administrator is reviewing the annual contracts for all hosted solutions. Upon review of the contract for the hosted mail solution, the administrator notes the monthly subscription rate has increased every year. The provider has been in place for ten years, and there is a large amount of data being hosted. Which of the following is a barrier to switching providers?

- A. Vendor lock-in
- B. Memorandum of understanding
- C. Encrypted data
- D. Service-level agreement

Answer: A

Explanation:

Vendor lock-in is a situation where a customer is so dependent on a particular vendor that they cannot easily switch to another vendor. This can happen for a variety of reasons, such as the use of proprietary technology, the lack of documentation, or the high cost of switching.

In this case, the cloud administrator is concerned about the increasing monthly subscription rate for the hosted mail solution. They may also be concerned about the difficulty of migrating the large amount of data that is being hosted. These factors could contribute to vendor lock-in.

NEW QUESTION # 144

A company has ten cloud engineers working on different manual configurations. Which of the following is the best method to address this issue?

- A. Change ticketing
- B. Configuration as code
- C. Deployment documentation
- D. Service logging

Answer: B

Explanation:

Configuration as code is the best method to address the issue of cloud engineers working on different manual configurations. This practice allows configurations to be scripted and automated, which reduces human error, enhances consistency, and makes the deployment process more efficient and reproducible.

References:
Configuration as code is part of cloud deployment best practices, ensuring standardized environments, which is a key topic within the CompTIA Cloud+ curriculum.

NEW QUESTION # 145

Which of the following migration types is best to use when migrating a highly available application, which is normally hosted on a local VM cluster, for usage with an external user population?

- A. Cloud to on-premises
- B. On-premises to on-premises
- C. Cloud to cloud
- D. On-premises to cloud

Answer: D

Explanation:

On-premises to cloud migration is ideal for moving a highly available application from a local VM cluster to a cloud environment, especially when the application will be accessed by an external user population. This approach leverages the scalability, availability, and accessibility of cloud resources, which are well-suited for handling external traffic and providing high availability.
