Amazon AWS Certified Developer Associate Exam (DVA-C02) Sample Questions (Q290-Q295):

NEW QUESTION # 290

A developer is creating a serverless orchestrator that performs a series of steps to processes incoming IoT data.

The orchestrator transforms the data, performs a series of calculations, and stores the results in Amazon DynamoDB. The entire process is completed in less than a minute.

The orchestrator must process tens of thousands of transactions each second. The orchestrator must not miss a transaction and must process each transaction at least once.

Which solution will meet these requirements MOST cost-effectively?

- A. Use AWS Step Functions to process the data as Asynchronous Express Workflows.
- B. Use AWS Step Functions to process the data as Synchronous Express Workflows.
- C. Use AWS Step Functions to process the data as Standard Workflows.
- D. Use Amazon Simple Notification Service (Amazon SNS) to process the data through an HTTP or HTTPS endpoint.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 291

You cannot access your AWS console, so you revert to using the CLI that you are not familiar with. Which of the following commands is not a valid CLI command for EC2 instances?

- A. `ec2-attach-internet-gateway`
- B. `ec2-allocate-interface`
- C. `ec2-allocate-address`
- D. `ec2-associate-route-table`

Answer: B

Explanation:

You can use the CLI tools to manage your Amazon EC2 resources (such as instances, security groups, and volumes) and your Amazon VPC resources (such as VPCs, subnets, route tables, and Internet gateways). Before you can start using the tools, you must download and configure them.

The following are valid CLI commands for EC2 instances:

`ec2-accept-vpc-peering-connection`

`ec2-allocate-address`

`ec2-assign-private-ip-addresses`

`ec2-associate-address`

`ec2-associate-dhcp-options`

`ec2-associate-route-table`

`ec2-attach-internet-gateway`

`ec2-attach-network-interface` (not `ec2-allocate-interface`)

NEW QUESTION # 292

A developer works in an environment with multiple AWS accounts that have AWS Lambda functions processing the same 100 KB payloads. The developer wants to centralize the point of origin of the payloads to one account and have all the Lambda functions be invoked whenever the initiating event occurs in the parent account.

How can the developer design the workflow in the MOST efficient way, so all the multi-account Lambda functions get invoked when the event occurs?

- A. Set up an Amazon SQS queue with the queue policy permitting the ReceiveMessage action for multi-account Lambda functions. Then send the payload to the SQS queue using the sqs:SendMessage permission and poll the queue using multi-account Lambda functions.
- B. Subscribe all the multi-account Lambda functions to an Amazon SNS topic and make a SNS Publish API call with the payload to the SNS topic.
- C. Create a Lambda function in the parent account and use cross-account IAM roles with the AWS Security Token Service (AWS STS) AssumeRole API call to make AWS Lambda invoke the API call to invoke all the cross-account Lambda functions.
- D. Use a worker on an Amazon EC2 instance to poll for the payload event. Invoke all Lambda functions using the Lambda Invoke API after using cross-account IAM roles with the AWS Security Token Service (AWS STS) AssumeRole API call.
