Axis Network Video Exam Sample Questions (Q34-Q39):

NEW QUESTION # 34

Which three are types of field of view?

- A. Telephoto, wide-angle, normal
- B. Normal, zoom, telephoto
- C. Wide-angle, normal, zoom
- D. Wide-angle, varifocal, normal

Answer: A

Explanation:

The three types of field of view are telephoto, wide-angle, and normal. A wide-angle lens provides a broader view, a normal lens offers a standard view comparable to the human eye, and a telephoto lens allows for a narrower field of view with greater magnification. Axis Communications' technical resources detail these field of view options for different camera lenses.

NEW QUESTION # 35

Which is true about P-iris?

- A. The P-iris makes use of a novel p-shaped blade that reduces complexity and cost while maintaining image quality
- B. In bright situations, P-iris limits the closing of the iris to avoid blurring caused by diffraction when the iris opening becomes too small
- C. The P-iris delivers the optimal depth of field by always using the smallest possible aperture for the available lighting
- D. The P-iris makes use of a novel p-shaped blade that allows the iris to react to rapidly changing lighting conditions

Answer: B

Explanation:

The P-iris (Precise Iris Control) technology in Axis cameras ensures optimal image quality by precisely controlling the iris position. In bright lighting conditions, P-iris prevents the iris from closing too much, which can cause blurring due to diffraction. Instead, it maintains an optimal iris opening to balance depth of field and image sharpness. For more information, consult Axis Communications' technical notes on P-iris technology.

NEW QUESTION # 36

When zooming in on an object with varifocal or zoom lens, light sensitivity of the camera is

- A. decreasing
- B. the same
- C. increasing
- D. dependent on lens

Answer: A

Explanation:

When zooming in on an object with a varifocal or zoom lens, the light sensitivity of the camera generally decreases. This is because zooming in reduces the amount of light reaching the sensor due to the longer focal length and narrower aperture, which can result in a darker image. This effect is more pronounced in cameras with lower-quality lenses or insufficient lighting. Axis Network Video documentation explains how lens properties and zoom settings can impact light sensitivity and overall image quality.
