- A. Wait to bring this up until the Sprint Retrospective.
- B. Explain to the Product Owner that it is up to the Developers to decide on acceptable quality standards.
- C. Coach the Product Owner on how to talk with the Developers about this concern.
- D. Encourage the Product Owner to put quality specifications on the Product Backlog and express the stakeholder's concern

- to the Developers.
- E. Bring the concern to the testers to improve how the Product is verified.

Answer: D,E

NEW QUESTION # 75

What enhances the transparency of an increment?

- A. Updating Sprint tasks properly in the electronic tracking tool.
- B. Doing all work needed to meet the definition of "Done"
- C. Reporting Sprint progress to the stakeholders daily
- D. Keeping track of and estimating all undone work to be completed in a separate Sprint.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is B, because doing all work needed to meet the definition of "Done" enhances the transparency of an increment. The Scrum Guide states that "when a Product Backlog item or an Increment is described as 'Done', everyone must understand what 'Done' means." Therefore, by meeting the definition of "Done", an increment becomes transparent to all stakeholders and ready for release.

NEW QUESTION # 76

Multiple Scrum Teams working on the same product or system all select work from the same Product Backlog.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 77

Which three of the following are time-boxed events in Scrum? (Choose the best three answers.)

- A. Release Planning.
- B. Sprint 0.
- C. Sprint Retrospective.
- D. Daily Scrum.
- E. Sprint Testing.
- F. Release Retrospective.
- G. Sprint Planning.

Answer: C,D,G

Explanation:

According to the Scrum Guide, the time-boxed events in Scrum are Sprint Retrospective, Sprint Planning, and Daily Scrum. These events have a maximum duration that cannot be exceeded. The other options are not time-boxed events in Scrum, as they are either not part of Scrum (such as Release Planning, Release Retrospective, Sprint Testing, and Sprint 0) or not events at all (such as Definition of Done).

NEW QUESTION # 78

You have six teams using a traditional method to deliver a product. Your management has asked you to start using Scrum. In the initial project there were separate plans and teams for the layers of a software system, i.e. one for the front-end, one for the middle tier, one for the back-end, and one for the interfaces and services. This resembles what is known as component teams. But you have read that it's a good idea to have teams organized by feature.

What are the advantages of keeping component teams while starting Scrum?

- A. Because they have worked together for some time, they are likely able to start producing shippable Increments faster than new feature teams would.

- B. Component teams generally have the skills needed to create a working Increment of software that provides business value.
- C. There's less initial disruption than organizing into new teams. As they start, they will discover what works best, and how to potentially re-organize towards this.
- D. There are fewer cross-team dependencies than working in feature teams.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The correct answer is A, because keeping component teams while starting Scrum may cause less initial disruption than organizing into new teams. As they start using Scrum, they will discover what works best for them and how to potentially re-organize towards feature teams. However, component teams may face some challenges in delivering a working Increment of software that provides business value every Sprint, as they may depend on other teams or layers.
