Peoplecert ITIL 4 Specialist: Create, Deliver and Support Sample Questions (Q86-Q91):

NEW QUESTION # 86

A managed service provider manages an organization's suppliers, provides some delivery functions to the organization, and coordinates service integration and management between the organization and its suppliers. Which model is this an example of?

- A. Single provider
- B. Service integration as a service
- C. Service guardian

- D. Retained service integration

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 87

A cross-functional team is designing a value stream to support the development of a new financial service. Some members of the team are suggesting that multiple value streams are needed. Which factor would MOST LIKELY influence the need for multiple value streams?

- A. The number of suppliers that will be used to source service components
- B. The methods used to manage the development work
- C. Whether the service is being created for internal or external customers
- D. The number of practices required to support the service

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 88

In ITIL 4, which practice is primarily responsible for defining, assessing and developing the roles, competencies and capabilities needed for effective service value streams?

- A. Service desk practice
- B. Organizational change management practice
- C. Workforce and talent management practice
- D. Continual improvement practice

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 89

An organization plans to launch a global, cloud-native analytics service that integrates data from multiple regions, adheres to diverse compliance mandates, and scales dynamically with usage.

During the value-stream's Design and Transition phase, which practice is chiefly responsible for creating the service design package detailing service architectures, policies, metrics, and operational models and ensuring it aligns with stakeholder requirements across all four dimensions of service management?

- A. Information Security Management Practice
- B. Relationship Management practice
- C. Service Design practice
- D. Service Level Management Practice

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Service Design practice owns the preparation of the service design package, which includes architectural blueprints, data flows, compliance requirements, organizational structures, and measurement models. It synthesizes stakeholder and customer requirements into a coherent design that addresses the four dimensions: organizations and people, information and technology, partners and suppliers, and value streams and processes. By doing so, it ensures that the new analytics service is fit for purpose, fit for use, and can be reliably transitioned into production.

NEW QUESTION # 90

At xyz organisation, five specialized departments Incident Management, Change Enablement, Release Management, Service Desk and Problem Management work with separate tools, processes and KPIs. Requests often stall at each handover, visibility is fragmented, and accountability is unclear. Leadership wants to reorganize around value streams to eliminate these barriers. Which ONE organizational approach will best align with ITIL 4 recommendations and break down functional silos?

- A. Minimize handover points by assigning end-to-end ownership to existing departments
- B. Form cross-functional, product-focused teams responsible for all stages of the service lifecycle

- C. Strengthen hierarchical governance to enforce stringent SLAs between teams
- D. Centralize specialist skills into a single center of excellence to drive deep expertise

Answer: B

Explanation:

ITIL 4 emphasizes organizing around products or services rather than functions. Cross-functional, product-focused teams bring together all necessary roles-design, build, operate and improve- within a single unit. This reduces handoffs, fosters shared goals, improves visibility and accelerates value delivery.
