- A. Virtual device
- B. Cloud instance
- C. Bare metal
- D. Containerized application

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 12
A new IT technician is learning about server hardware and asks why servers seem more complex than desktop PCs. What is the primary reason for the increased complexity in server hardware when compared to desktop systems?

- A. Reduce the physical footprint for space efficiency.
- B. Enhance processing power and bandwidth for multiple users.
- C. Minimize power consumption for cost savings in large deployments.
- D. Simplify server management interfaces for users.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Servers are designed to handle workloads from multiple users simultaneously, requiring enhanced processing power, higher bandwidth, and more robust components compared to desktop PCs, which are typically for single-user tasks. This complexity arises from the need for multi-core CPUs, larger memory capacities, redundant power supplies, and advanced cooling systems to ensure reliability and performance under constant load. Desktops prioritize simplicity and cost, while servers focus on scalability and uptime. Minimizing power or footprint is secondary; the core is supporting enterprise-level demands. Simplifying management is a software aspect, not hardware complexity. This distinction is fundamental in understanding server roles in IT environments. Exact extract: "Define the characteristics of a server... Explain how different PowerEdge server models (e.g., rack servers, tower servers, blade servers) are better suited for specific roles... Describe and position a PowerEdge server in a solution - Edge (ROBO), Cloud, Core, Use Case." Reference: Dell PowerEdge Foundations v2 Exam Description (D-PE-FN-01), Topic: Introduction to Servers (28%) and Server Architecture and Roles (22%).
