VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0 Architect Sample Questions (Q55-Q60):

NEW QUESTION # 55

What are the benefits of updating firmware and drivers for Broadcom solutions in VMware environments?

- A. Bug fixes
- B. Enhanced security
- C. Improved performance
- D. Increased hardware lifespan

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

Firmware and driver updates improve performance, fix bugs, and enhance security in VMware environments.

NEW QUESTION # 56

A customer has a requirement to improve bandwidth and reliability for traffic that is routed through the NSX Edges in VMware Cloud Foundation.

What should the architect recommend satisfying this requirement?

- A. Configure a TEP Group for NSX Edges
- B. Configure a LAG Group for NSX Edges
- C. Configure a Load balanced Group for NSX Edges
- D. Configure a TEP Independent Group for NSX Edges

Answer: B

Explanation:

In VCF, NSX Edges handle north-south traffic, and improving bandwidth and reliability involves optimizing their network connectivity.

Option D, "Configure a LAG Group for NSX Edges," uses Link Aggregation Groups (LAG) to bundle multiple physical links, increasing bandwidth and providing redundancy via failover if a link fails. This aligns with NSX-T 3.2 capabilities in VCF 5.2 for edge nodes, directly addressing the requirement.

Option A (load balancing) could distribute traffic but doesn't inherently improve physical link reliability, while B and C (TEP groups) relate to host-level Tunnel Endpoints, not edge traffic. LAG is a standard NSX recommendation for such scenarios.

NEW QUESTION # 57

Which of the following VMware solutions are used for managing and optimizing cloud costs in VMware Cloud Foundation?

- A. VMware vRealize Automation
- B. VMware vSAN
- C. VMware vRealize Operations
- D. VMware vSphere

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

VMware vRealize Suite tools like Operations and Automation are crucial for managing and optimizing cloud costs within VMware Cloud Foundation.

NEW QUESTION # 58

Which architecture is used by VMware vSphere to manage virtualization workloads?

- A. Mainframe
- B. Client-Server
- C. Peer-to-Peer
- D. Clustered

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

vSphere operates using a client-server model with clustered resources.

NEW QUESTION # 59

As part of a new VMware Cloud Foundation (VCF) deployment, a customer is planning to implement vSphere IaaS control plane. What component could be installed and enabled to implement the solution?

- A. Aria Operations
- B. Aria Automation
- C. Storage DRS
- D. NSX Edge networking

Answer: B

Explanation:

The vSphere IaaS (Infrastructure-as-a-Service) control plane in VCF 5.2 enables self-service provisioning and automation of virtualized resources, integrating with vSphere's Supervisor Cluster for cloud-like functionality.

Option A, "Aria Automation" (formerly vRealize Automation), is the correct component, providing orchestration, cloud templates, and self-service portals to manage IaaS workloads in VCF. It integrates with vSphere and NSX to deliver this capability.

Option B, "NSX Edge networking," focuses on networking, not IaaS control.

Option C, "Storage DRS," optimizes storage but isn't a control plane.

Option D, "Aria Operations," is for monitoring, not provisioning. VMware's documentation confirms Aria Automation's role in VCF IaaS.
