IIA Business Knowledge for Internal Auditing Sample Questions (Q131-Q136):

NEW QUESTION # 131

Which of the following types of data analytics would be used by a hospital to determine which patients are likely to require remittance for additional treatment?

- A. Predictive analytics.
- B. Prescriptive analytics.
- C. Descriptive analytics.
- D. Diagnostic analytics.

Answer: A

Explanation:

* Definition of Predictive Analytics:

* Predictive analytics uses historical data, machine learning, and statistical algorithms to forecast future outcomes.

* In the healthcare sector, it is used to predict patient readmission rates and identify those at high risk of needing additional treatment.

* How Predictive Analytics Applies to Hospitals:

* Hospitals analyze patient histories, symptoms, treatments, and recovery rates to determine the likelihood of readmission.

* Predictive models help healthcare providers take proactive measures, such as tailored post-discharge care plans, to reduce readmission risks.

* This leads to better patient outcomes and cost savings.

* Why Other Options Are Incorrect:

* B. Prescriptive analytics:

* Prescriptive analytics goes beyond prediction and provides recommendations for action.

In this case, the hospital is only determining which patients are likely to require additional treatment, not recommending treatments.

* C. Descriptive analytics:

* Descriptive analytics focuses on summarizing past data without making predictions. It would be used to report on past patient admissions but not to predict future readmissions.

* D. Diagnostic analytics:

* Diagnostic analytics analyzes the causes of past events but does not forecast future patient readmissions.

* IIA's Perspective on Data Analytics in Decision-Making:

* IIA GTAG (Global Technology Audit Guide) on Data Analytics emphasizes the role of predictive analytics in risk assessment and operational efficiency.

* COSO ERM Framework supports predictive modeling as part of strategic risk management.

- B. Disclosure laws tend to be consistent from one jurisdiction to another.
- C. There are several internationally recognized standards for dealing with financial donors.
- D. Specific guidance must be followed when interacting with nongovernmental organizations.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 133

Which of the following statements is true regarding reversing entries in an accounting cycle?

- A. Reversing entries should be completed at the end of the next accounting period after recording regular transactions of the period
- B. Reversing entries are the exact opposite of the adjustments made in the previous period.
- C. Reversing all previous closing adjustments is a mandatory step in the accounting cycle
- D. Reversing entries are identical to the adjusting entries made in the previous period.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 134

An example of an internal nonfinancial benchmark is:

- A. A US $50,000 limit on the cost of employee training programs at each of the company's plants.
- B. The average actual cost per pound of a specific product at the company's most efficient plant.
- C. The labor rate of comparably skilled employees at a major competitor's plant.
- D. The percentage of customer orders delivered on time at the company's most efficient plant.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Benchmarking is a continuous evaluation of the practices of the best organizations in their class and the adaptation of processes to reflect the best of these practices. It requires analysis and measurement of key outputs against those of the best organizations. This procedure also involves identifying the underlying key actions and causes that contribute to the performance difference. The percentage of orders delivered on time at the company's most efficient plant is an example of an internal nonfinancial benchmark.
