NEW QUESTION # 99

Which module is used to manage and monitor authentication events in a centralized logging format in ClearPass?

Response:

- A. ClearPass Visitor Log
- B. ClearPass Insight
- C. ClearPass Access Tracker
- D. ClearPass Monitor

NEW QUESTION # 100

A company wants to prevent corporate devices from accessing the guest network. They configure a ClearPass Entity Update Enforcement action to tag devices as corporate clients. What happens when a tagged device attempts to access the guest network?

- A. The corporate client is redirected to a different network.
- B. The enforcement action is ignored, and the device accesses the guest network.
- C. The guest access service reads the attribute and denies access to the guest network.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Entity Update allows ClearPass to write custom attributes back to its own Endpoint database. Once a device is tagged as "Corporate," this attribute becomes part of the context available to all services. When that device connects to a "Guest" SSID, the Guest Service can include a rule that checks for the "Corporate" tag; if found, the service uses an Enforcement Policy to return a "Deny Access" profile, successfully segmenting corporate assets from the guest network.

NEW QUESTION # 101

A company uses ClearPass to manage network access and has integrated it with an external server that supports HTTP API access. A new policy requires that any device managed by the EMM server must receive a specific configuration update upon network authentication. How can ClearPass facilitate this requirement?

- A. ClearPass can directly update the device configuration without involving the EMM server.
- B. ClearPass can only notify the network administrator to manually update the device configuration.
- C. ClearPass can send an HTTP message to the EMM server, triggering the server to push the required configuration update to the device.

Answer: C

Explanation:

ClearPass can integrate with external systems through HTTP-based APIs. During authentication, ClearPass can trigger an HTTP request to the EMM server, which then initiates the required configuration update on the managed device based on the defined policy.
