NEW QUESTION # 105

You have an Azure Storage account named storage1 that stores images.
You need to create a new storage account and replicate the images in storage1 to the new account by using object replication.
How should you configure the new account? To answer, select the appropriate options in the answer area.
NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:
Account type: StorageV2 only
Object type to create in the new account: Container
To configure object replication in Azure Blob Storage, both the source and destination storage accounts must meet specific requirements. The Microsoft Azure Administrator documentation clearly specifies that object replication is supported only for StorageV2 (General-purpose v2) accounts, and replication can only occur between blob containers in those accounts.
* Account Type: Object replication is supported exclusively in StorageV2 accounts because older types such as BlobStorage or StorageV1 lack replication metadata and versioning support.
* Object Type: The replication applies only to blob containers-it does not support files, tables, or queues.
Replication works by asynchronously copying block blobs (not append or page blobs) between the source and destination containers once replication rules are configured.
Therefore, to replicate images (blobs) from storage1 to the new account, the new account must be created as StorageV2 only, and the object type must be a container.
Final Verified Answer:
Account type: StorageV2 only
Object type to create: Container

You create a route table named RT1. RT1 is associated to Subnet1 and Subnet2 and contains the routes in the following table.
You apply RT1 to Subnet1.
For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No.
NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation
Box 1: Yes
Traffic from VM1 and VM2 can reach VM3 thanks to the routing table, and as IP forwarding is enabled on VM3, traffic from VM3 can reach VM1.
Box 2: No
VM3, which has IP forwarding, must be turned on, in order for traffic from VM2 to reach VM1.
Box 3: Yes
The traffic from VM1 will reach VM3, which thanks to IP forwarding, will send the traffic to VM2.
