NEW QUESTION # 192
Every Development Team should have:

- A. One Lead Developer and no more than 8 other members.
- B. At least one representative from each major software engineering discipline (like QA, Dev, UX).
- C. The competencies and skills needed to deliver a Done Increment in a Sprint.

Answer: C

Explanation:
According to the Scrum Guide1, the Development Team consists of professionals who do the work of delivering a potentially releasable Increment of "Done" product at the end of each Sprint. Development Teams are structured and empowered by the organization to organize and manage their own work. The resulting synergy optimizes the Development Team's overall efficiency and effectiveness. Cross-functional teams have all competencies needed to accomplish the work without depending on others not part of the team. The team model in Scrum is designed to optimize flexibility, creativity, and productivity.

NEW QUESTION # 193
Currently, your Development Teams are organized to address a single layer only (for example, front end, middle tier, back end, and interfaces). What are three things to consider when deciding to move away from such component teams toward feature teams? (Choose three.)

- A. Productivity may suffer when making this kind of move.
- B. Feature teams have less communication overhead.
- C. With feature teams, it is easier to calculate the productivity per team.
- D. Getting support from the business side first helps.
- E. You cannot do Scrum without feature teams.

Answer: A,B,D

Explanation:
The correct answers are B, C, and D, because moving away from component teams toward feature teams may involve some challenges and trade-offs. Productivity may suffer when making this kind of move, as teams need to learn new skills, coordinate with other teams, and deal with legacy code. Getting support from the business side first helps, as they can provide the vision, value, and feedback for the features. Feature teams have less communication overhead, as they can deliver end-to-end functionality without depending on other teams.

NEW QUESTION # 194
A product Increment must be released to production at the end of each Sprint.

- B. True

- D. It is best to have Sprints of consistent length throughout a development effort.
