Amazon AWS Certified Cloud Practitioner Sample Questions (Q453-Q458):

NEW QUESTION # 453

A company wants an AWS service to collect and process 10 TB of data locally and transfer the data to AWS.

The company has intermittent connectivity.

Which AWS service will meet these requirements?

- A. AWS Database Migration Service (AWS DMS)
- B. AWS Snowball Edge
- C. AWS Backup
- D. AWS DataSync

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is D. AWS Snowball Edge.

AWS Snowball Edge is a physical device that can be used to collect and process data locally and then transfer it to AWS. It is designed for situations where there is limited or intermittent network connectivity, or where bandwidth costs are high. AWS Snowball Edge can store up to 80 TB of data and has compute and storage capabilities to run applications on the device<sup>1</sup>.

AWS Database Migration Service (AWS DMS) is a service that helps migrate databases to AWS. It does not collect or process data locally, nor does it work offline<sup>2</sup>.

AWS DataSync is a service that helps transfer data between on-premises storage systems and AWS storage services. It does not collect or process data locally, and it requires a network connection to work<sup>3</sup>.

AWS Backup is a service that helps automate and manage backups across AWS services. It does not collect or process data locally, nor does it transfer data to AWS. It only backs up data that is already in AWS<sup>4</sup>.
