Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q22-Q27):

NEW QUESTION # 22

A company manages its regional operations as separate businesses. The regional sites (Site A and Site B) operate with:

- * Separate realms
- * Different code bases
- * Different category navigation menus
- * Frequent updates on category structure

The requirement from the business is to provide hreflang link tags on category pages pointing to the same category on the other regional site. Example HTML for one of these links as displayed on Site A is:

```
<link rel="alternate" href="https://www.salesforce.com/en_US/womens-new-arrivals" hreflang="en_US" />

Which solution should the Architect choose while keeping performance in mind?

- A. Create additional locales in all realms create a new custom attribute on the category that is localized. Populate the attribute with the other site URLs and use it to display the hreflang tag.
- B. Create a custom Business Manager module. Ask the business to maintain the hreflang link tags for each regional site in this Business Manager module.
- C. Create a new custom object type. Populate the hreflang mapping for each category and locale in this custom object. Use the custom object to display the hreflang link tag.
- D. Create a new custom attribute on the Category. Populate the attribute with the other entire site URLs corresponding to locales in JSON Format. Use the attribute to display the hreflang link tag.

Answer: C

Explanation:

For a multi-regional setup with different realms and frequent updates, using a custom object to manage hreflang mappings offers flexibility and scalability. Custom objects can efficiently store URL mappings for each category across different locales, making it easier to manage and update as category structures change.

This method allows for centralized control over hreflang mappings and simplifies maintenance compared to other options which might involve more complex integrations or manual updates.

NEW QUESTION # 23

A new version of the Page Show controller is required for implementation of Page Designer specific look. It requires implementation of a specific, cache period for Page Designer pages, which is not currently available in the base Storefront Reference Architecture (SFRA) cache.js module. What two steps should the Architect instruct the developer to implement?

Choose 2 answers

- A. Create new Page.js controller in client's cartridge. Extend the code from base and prepend the new cache middleware function to Page-Show route.
- B. Create new cache.js in client's cartridge. Copy cache.js from app_storefront_base and add a function for the Page Designer caching.
- C. Create new cache.js in client's cartridge. Extend cache.js from app_storefront_base and add a function for the Page Designer caching.
- D. Create new Page.js controller in client's cartridge. Copy code from base and modify the Page-Show route to include the new cache middleware function.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

To implement a specific cache period for Page Designer pages in SFRA:

* Option A involves creating a new Page.js controller in the client's cartridge, where the existing Page-Show route can be modified to include a custom caching logic. This ensures that the specific caching requirements for Page Designer pages are met without altering the base functionality for other pages.

* Option D calls for extending the existing cache.js module in the client's cartridge to include a function specifically for Page Designer caching. This allows for reusing the existing caching logic while adding enhancements specific to the Page Designer pages, thus maintaining efficiency and clarity in the codebase.

Both options provide a clean, maintainable approach to customizing caching for specific requirements in SFRA, avoiding disruptions in other areas of the site functionality.

NEW QUESTION # 24

A client receives multiple feeds from third parties on the same SFTP location:

- * Product prices (sftp: prod/prices)
- * Stores information (sftp: prod/stores;
- * Product information (sftp: prod/catalog)
- * Categories information (sftp: prod/marketing)
- * Content (sftp: prod/marketing)

Some of the feeds are placed on sftp multiple times a day, as the information is updated in the source system.

The Architect decides to have only two jobs:

- * One that checks and downloads available feeds every hour
- * One that imports the files from Webdav once a day before the data replication, using the standards steps available in the Job Framework. Which design is correct for the import Job, taking the steps scope in consideration?

- A. - four sibling flows execute steps in parallel: import products, stores, prices, content- last flow executes steps in sequence: import categories, reindex
- B. - Four sibling flows execute steps in parallel: import products, stores, price, content- last flow executes steps in sequence: import:categories, reindex
- C. - three sibling flows import steps in parallel: import products, stores, prices- fourth flow executes: import categories- last flow executes steps in sequence: reindex, import content
- D. - four sibling flows execute steps in parallel: import products, stores, prices, content- fifth flow executes: import categories- last flow executes steps in sequence: reindex

Answer: A

Explanation:

This design maximizes efficiency and concurrency. By having the jobs that import products, stores, prices, and content run in parallel, the system can handle multiple data streams simultaneously, reducing total processing time. The sequential execution of importing categories followed by reindexing ensures that all new and updated information is properly indexed and available for site use, following the completion of the import of more frequently updated data. This order respects dependencies between steps and aligns with best practices for handling complex data workflows in B2C Commerce environments.

NEW QUESTION # 25

The Client wants to offer custom made container products on its new B2C Commerce storefront. The Client provided two business requirements.

- * Customer can specify container length, width, and height.
- * Customer can specify the material that the container is made of.

The Client also provided the Architect a current data schema (shown below) for reference while preparing the technical documentation.

Which two gaps between the requirements and the data schema should the Architect discuss with the Client?
Choose 2 answers

- A. The data schema includes an implied structure that the customer's choices should be captured as custom objects, but there isn't a business requirement to do so
- B. The data schema includes unique identifiers for material and color fields, but neither are reflected in the business requirements.
- C. The data schema includes a Color_ID field, but there isn't a business requirement to allow the customer to specify container color.
- D. The data schema includes a material Price_Markup field, but there isn't a business requirement to factor the material cost into the final price calculation.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

The provided data schema includes several fields that do not match the stated business requirements, which focus on the custom dimensions and materials of the containers:

* Option A: The inclusion of unique identifiers for materials and color fields in the data schema suggests a level of detail and structure around these attributes that is not reflected in the business requirements. If the business does not require tracking or differentiating materials beyond just naming them, this might be unnecessarily complex.

* Option D: The data schema includes a Color_ID field, which implies the ability to specify the color of the container. However, the business requirements do not mention color as a customization option available to customers. This discrepancy needs to be addressed to ensure that the database design aligns with actual business needs.

NEW QUESTION # 26

While validating a LINK Cartridge for inclusion into the solution, an Architect notices that the UNK cartridge documentation requires the Architect to add a script node to a Pipeline in the storefront cartridge. The script is also a valid CommonJS module. Which approach can the Architect use to Integrate this cartridge into a site that uses Controllers only?

- A. Add the script that is required via a Module, exports statement in the Controller add the appropriate arguments, and execute the correct method.
- B. Copy and paste the script that is required directly into the Controller, add the appropriate arguments, then execute the correct method
- C. Add the script that is required via a require statement in the Controller, add the appropriate arguments, and execute the correct method.
- D. Add the script that is required via an importScript statement in the Controller, add the appropriate arguments, and execute the correct method.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In a site using Controllers, the most efficient way to integrate a script from a LINK cartridge that is also a valid CommonJS module is by using a require statement. This method enables the Architect to modularly load the necessary script, passing in any arguments that the script needs to function correctly within the existing Controller framework. This approach maintains modularity and adherence to the CommonJS module pattern, making it the most suitable for seamless integration.
