CIPS Whole Life Asset Management Sample Questions (Q85-Q90):

NEW QUESTION # 85

A company has obsolete inventories and it must write off these inventories. How does writing off inventories impact on the company's financial statements?

1. Stock increases
  2. Stock decreases
  3. Profit increases
  4. Profit decreases
- A. 1 and 3 only
  - B. 2 and 4 only
  - C. 1 and 4 only
  - D. 2 and 3 only

Answer: B

Explanation:

An inventory write-off is a process of removing from the general ledger any inventory that has no value.

Using the direct write-off method, a business will record a credit to the inventory asset account and a debit to the expense account.

For example, say a company with $100,000 worth of inventory decides to write off

$10,000 in inventory at the end of the year. First, the firm will credit the inventory account with the value of the write-off to reduce the balance. The value of the gross inventory will be reduced as such: $100,000 -

$10,000 = $90,000. Next, the inventory write-off expense account will be increased with a debit to reflect the loss.

The expense account is reflected in the income statement, reducing the firm's net income and thus its retained earnings. A decrease in retained earnings translates into a corresponding decrease in the shareholders' equity section of the balance sheet.

If the inventory write-off is immaterial, a business will often charge the inventory write-off to the cost of goods sold (COGS) account. The problem with charging the amount to the COGS account is that it distorts the gross margin of the business, as there is no corresponding revenue entered for the sale of the product.

Most inventory write-offs are small, annual expenses. A large inventory write-off (such as one caused by a warehouse fire) may be categorized as a non-recurring loss.

NEW QUESTION # 86

The optimum balance in the standard ISO 18602:2013 (Packaging and the environment - Optimization of the packaging system) considers which of the following factors?

1. Environmental impact of losses due to lack of packaging
  2. The process for packaging design, including material selection
  3. Procedures and requirements for packaging that are suitable for organic recycling
  4. Environmental impact of excess packaging
- A. 1 and 4 only
  - B. 1 and 3 only

- C. 2 and 4 only
- D. 2 and 3 only

Answer: A

Explanation:

ISO 18602:2013 is about Packaging and the environment - Optimization of the packaging system. ISO 18602:2013 specifies requirements and a procedure for assessment of packaging to ensure that the weight or volume of its material content is optimized consistent with the functions of packaging. This is one of several options for reducing the impact of packaging on the environment.

It also provides methodologies and procedures for

- determining the amount and minimization of substances or mixtures hazardous to the environment, and
- determining the amount of four heavy metals (lead, cadmium, mercury, hexavalent chromium) in packaging.

The optimum balance in this standard weighs the environmental impact of losses that may happen with no packaging or inadequate packaging against the environmental impact from excess packaging.

The process for packaging design, including material selection, is not part of ISO 18602:2013.

The procedure for applying ISO 18602:2013 is contained in ISO 18601.

NEW QUESTION # 87

Which of the following is another name for scheduled (routine) maintenance?

- A. Preventative maintenance
- B. Corrective maintenance
- C. Run to breakdown
- D. Predictive maintenance

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 88

Which of the following code systems is commonly used by governments as a basis for their Customs tariffs and for the collection of international trade statistics?

- A. Global Trade Item Number
- B. The International Mobile Equipment Identity
- C. Global Location Number
- D. The Harmonized Commodity Description and Coding System

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Harmonized Commodity Description and Coding System, also known as the Harmonized System (HS) of tariff nomenclature is an internationally standardized system of names and numbers to classify traded products. It came into effect in 1988 and has since been developed and maintained by the World Customs Organization (WCO) (formerly the Customs Co-operation Council), an independent intergovernmental organization based in Brussels, Belgium, with over 200 member countries.

The Global Trade Item Number (GTIN) is an identifier for trade items, developed by GS1. Such identifiers are used to look up product information in a database (often by entering the number through a barcode scanner pointed at an actual product) which may belong to a retailer, manufacturer, collector, researcher, or other entity.

The Global Location Number can be used by companies to identify their locations, giving them complete flexibility to identify any type or level of location required.

The International Mobile Equipment Identity (IMEI) is a number, usually unique, to identify 3GPP and iDEN mobile phones, as well as some satellite phones.

NEW QUESTION # 89

An organization might find it more beneficial to lease and use an asset over a predetermined period. After this period, the lessee has the right to secure outright ownership of the asset by paying an agreed amount; otherwise, the asset would be repossessed by the lessor. Which of the following is an advantage of leasing?

- A. Costs are known and agreed in advance
- B. Long-term commitment to pay installments even if not using the asset
- C. The usage of the asset is usually capped
- D. The total cost of ownership is not applicable as the asset is leased

Answer: A

Explanation:

Leasing allows an organization to predict costs accurately, as installment payments are pre-agreed. This makes financial planning simpler, which is especially beneficial in whole-life asset management where minimizing upfront capital expenditure is often a priority. Leasing also reduces the risk associated with asset obsolescence.
