CompTIA Cybersecurity Analyst (CySA+) Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q13-Q18):

NEW QUESTION # 13

A company received a shipment of new network switches. Immediately after installing the switches, a security analyst notices suspicious traffic coming from one of the new switches.

Which of the following best describes the threat actor?

- A. Organized crime
- B. Nation-state
- C. Supply chain
- D. Insider threat

Answer: C

Explanation:

The suspicious traffic originating immediately from new, out-of-the-box switches indicates they were likely tampered with before delivery, a classic supply-chain compromise.

NEW QUESTION # 14

Which of the following evidence collection methods is most likely to be acceptable in court cases?

- A. Providing a full system backup inventory
- B. Providing a bit-level image of the hard drive
- C. Copying all access files at the time of the incident
- D. Creating a file-level archive of all files

Answer: B

Explanation:

A bit-level image is a forensic-grade copy that preserves all data on a disk, including unallocated space, deleted files, and metadata. This is the most legally defensible form of digital evidence collection, as it ensures that no potential evidence is missed.

Copying all access files (Option A) only captures live files and omits deleted or system-level artifacts that may be critical.

Creating a file-level archive (Option B) is insufficient because it does not capture system metadata or slack space where forensic artifacts reside.

Providing a full system backup inventory (Option C) may include important files, but it lacks forensic integrity because backups often modify timestamps and do not capture all system states.

Thus, the correct answer is D, as a bit-level image ensures forensic integrity and completeness of evidence.

NEW QUESTION # 15

A security analyst working for an airline is prioritizing vulnerabilities found on a system. The system has the following requirements:

- Can store periodically audited documents required for takeoffs and landings
- Can keep critical records regarding the company's operations
- Data can be made public upon request and authorization

Which of the following vulnerabilities should be remediated first?

- A. A broken access control vulnerability impacting data integrity
- B. A DoS vulnerability impacting the system's availability
- C. A zero-day vulnerability impacting the system's confidentiality
- D. A heap overflow vulnerability impacting the system's usability

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 16

Which of the following threat-modeling procedures is in the OWASP Web Security Testing Guide?

- A. Security by design
- B. Review of security requirements
- C. Decomposing the application
- D. Compliance checks

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 17

Which of the following phases of the Cyber Kill Chain involves the adversary attempting to establish communication with a successfully exploited target?

- A. Delivery
- B. Exploitation
- C. Command and control
- D. Actions on objectives

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

Command and control (C2) is a phase of the Cyber Kill Chain that involves the adversary attempting to establish communication with a successfully exploited target. C2 enables the adversary to remotely control or manipulate the target system or network using various methods, such as malware callbacks, backdoors, botnets, or covert channels. C2 allows the adversary to maintain persistence, exfiltrate data, execute commands, deliver payloads, or spread to other systems or networks.
