Amazon AWS Certified Solutions Architect - Associate (SAA-C03) Sample Questions (Q195-Q200):

NEW QUESTION # 195
A company operates a data lake in Amazon S3 that stores large datasets in multiple formats. The company has an application that retrieves and processes subsets of data from multiple objects in the data lake based on filtering criteria. For each data query, the application currently downloads the entire S3 object and performs transformations. The current process requires a large amount of transformation time.
The company wants a solution that will give the application the ability to query and filter directly on S3 objects without downloading the objects.
Which solution will meet these requirements?

- A. Use Amazon ElastiCache (Valkey) to cache the objects.
- B. Use Amazon API Gateway to create an API to retrieve filtered results from Amazon S3.
- C. Use Amazon Athena to query and filter the objects in Amazon S3.
- D. Use Amazon EMR to process and filter the objects.

Answer: C

Explanation:
The best solution to query and filter S3 data directly without downloading the full object is to use Amazon Athena.
Amazon Athena is an interactive query service that lets you use SQL to analyze structured, semi-structured, and unstructured data directly in Amazon S3, without needing to move or transform the data.
It supports formats like CSV, JSON, ORC, Parquet, and Avro and integrates with AWS Glue Data Catalog for schema management.
Athena is serverless, meaning there's no infrastructure to manage, and it's billed per query, which keeps it cost-effective.
Option B (EMR) is heavier and requires managing a cluster.
Option C (API Gateway) is not suited for querying S3 datasets.
Option D (ElastiCache) is a memory store, not a query engine.

- B. Configure an instance in each subnet to switch its network interface card to promiscuous mode and analyze network traffic.
- C. Implement IDS/IPS agents on each Instance running In VPC
- D. Implement Elastic Load Balancing with SSL listeners In front of the web applications

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 199
A company runs a content management system on an Amazon Elastic Container Service (Amazon ECS) cluster. The system allows visitors to provide feedback about the company's products by uploading documents and photos of the products to an Amazon S3 bucket.
The company has a workflow on AWS that processes uploaded documents to perform sentiment analysis of photos and text. The processing workflow calls multiple AWS services.
The company needs a solution to automate the processing workflow. The solution must handle any failed uploads.
Which solution will meet these requirements with the LEAST effort?

- A. Use S3 Event Notifications to publish events to an Amazon Simple Queue Service (Amazon SQS) queue. Create an ECS cluster that scales based on the number of messages in the queue. Configure the cluster to orchestrate the processing workflow.
- B. Use S3 Event Notifications to publish events to an Amazon Simple Notification Service (Amazon SNS) topic. Deploy a web application on the Amazon ECS cluster to subscribe to the SNS topic and listen for events to orchestrate the processing workflow.
- C. Use S3 Event Notifications to publish events to an Amazon Simple Queue Service (Amazon SQS) queue. Configure long polling. Deploy an Amazon EC2 instance that runs a script to orchestrate the processing workflow.
- D. Use S3 Event Notifications to invoke an Amazon EventBridge rule. Configure the rule to initiate an AWS Step Functions workflow that orchestrates the processing workflow.

Answer: D

Explanation:
AWS Step Functions is designed to coordinate multiple AWS services into serverless workflows, handling errors, retries, and complex logic. By configuring Amazon S3 Event Notifications to trigger an Amazon EventBridge rule, you can automatically start a Step Functions workflow when a new object is uploaded to S3. Step Functions can manage retries for failed uploads and orchestrate calls to various AWS services with minimal operational effort.
AWS Documentation Extract:
"You can use Amazon EventBridge to initiate AWS Step Functions workflows in response to events from S3 buckets. Step Functions can orchestrate the sequence of AWS service calls and automatically handle retries and errors, making it ideal for automating and managing complex workflows." (Source: AWS Step Functions documentation, Using Step Functions with EventBridge and S3) Other options:
A: Requires manual implementation of orchestration and error handling.
B & C: Involve additional infrastructure management and custom logic for workflow orchestration and error handling, increasing operational effort.
