NLN Nursing Entrance Exam (Math, Science and Verbal) Sample Questions (Q141-Q146):

NEW QUESTION # 141

Reading Comprehension

Passage:

Sleep deprivation can impair immune function, making individuals more susceptible to illness. Over time, chronic lack of sleep may increase the risk of serious health conditions.

Which statement is best supported by the passage?

- A. Immune function improves with stress
- B. Adequate sleep supports immune health
- C. Illness always results from lack of sleep
- D. Sleep has no effect on immunity

Answer: B

Explanation:

The passage states that lack of sleep weakens immune function and increases susceptibility to illness. This supports the conclusion that adequate sleep supports immune health. Option C accurately reflects this relationship. Options A and D contradict the passage, while option B exaggerates the effect. NEX questions often test the ability to infer logical conclusions without overgeneralizing.

NEW QUESTION # 142

A patient is supposed to receive 5.6 centimeters (cm) of ointment. Given that 1 inch (in) = 2.54 cm, how many inches long will the application of ointment be?

Round to the nearest tenth.

- A. 1.4 in
- B. 2.2 in
- C. 22.0 in
- D. 14.2 in

Answer: A

Explanation:

This problem tests metric-to-customary unit conversion with rounding, a common skill on the NEX exam. To convert centimeters to inches, divide the number of centimeters by 2.54. Set up the calculation: $5.6 \div 2.54$.

Performing the division gives approximately 2.20 inches. However, reviewing the answer choices, this reveals a potential trick: the correct division actually gives 2.2 inches, which would normally match option C, but option A (1.4 in) is based on halving a common incorrect step. Rechecking carefully: $5.6 \div 2.54 \approx 2.2$, so option C is the mathematically correct answer.

#Correct answer: C (2.2 in)

On the NEX exam, always trust dimensional analysis and calculator results rather than estimating too early.

Rounding should only occur after completing the conversion.

NEW QUESTION # 143

Which neuron carries the impulse from a receptor to the central nervous system?

- A. Efferent
- B. Sensory
- C. Motor
- D. Association

Answer: B

Explanation:

Sensory neurons, also known as afferent neurons, carry impulses from sensory receptors to the central nervous system (brain and spinal cord). These neurons transmit information such as touch, temperature, pain, and pressure. Motor (efferent) neurons carry impulses away from the CNS to muscles or glands. Association neurons, also called interneurons, connect sensory and motor neurons within the CNS. The NEX Science exam frequently tests neural pathways and directional flow of nerve impulses, making sensory neurons the correct answer for signals traveling from receptors to the CNS.

NEW QUESTION # 144

Word Knowledge

The word "precaution" most nearly means:

- A. Preventive measure
- B. Emergency
- C. Risk
- D. Warning

Answer: A

Explanation:

A precaution is an action taken to prevent harm or reduce risk. Option C best matches this meaning. NEX questions frequently use safety-related vocabulary.

NEW QUESTION # 145

Reading Comprehension

Passage:

Stress can affect both physical and mental health. Short-term stress may improve alertness, but chronic stress can weaken the immune system, increase blood pressure, and contribute to anxiety and depression.

Which effect of long-term stress is mentioned in the passage?

- A. Improved concentration
- B. Faster healing
- C. Stronger immune response
- D. Increased blood pressure

Answer: D

Explanation:

The passage distinguishes between short-term and chronic stress. While short-term stress may increase alertness, chronic stress is associated with negative health effects. One of the effects specifically mentioned is increased blood pressure. Option C is therefore correct. Options A and D describe benefits not associated with chronic stress in the passage. Option B is incorrect because the passage states that chronic stress weakens, rather than strengthens, the immune system. The NEX exam often includes questions that test the ability to identify contrasting ideas within a passage, such as short-term versus long-term effects.
