NEW QUESTION # 144
A revenue cloud customer has posted a cash payment that was created on account A by mistake.what are the stepsto apply this to the correct invoice on account B?

- A. Allocate the payment to an invoice on account B
- B. Allocate the payment if allocated and reparent the payment to account B
- C. Set the payment status to canceled and create a new payment on account B
- D. Allocate the payment if allocated,create a refund and then create a new payment foraccount B

Answer: D

Explanation:
In Salesforce Revenue Cloud, if a cash payment has been posted to the wrong account by mistake, the recommended steps to correct this are as follows:
Allocate the Payment: If the payment has been allocated, the first step is to allocate the payment. This means assigning the payment to the specific invoice it was intended for.
Create a Refund: Once the payment has been allocated, the next step is to create a refund. This will effectively reverse the payment that was made in error.
Create a New Payment for Account B: After the refund has been created, a new payment can be made for the correct account (Account B in this case). This payment should be allocated to the correct invoice on Account B: It's important to note that these steps ensure that the payment records are accurate and reflect the correct allocation of funds. This is crucial for accurate financial reporting and for maintaining the integrity ofthe account's payment history.

Which 3 documents help a revenue cloud consultantbetter understand the client'srevenue cloud project requirements before speakingfor the first time in a scopingsession?

- A. A sample proposal the client provides to their customers

- B. The clients income statements and balance sheet
- C. brochures that provided detail to the products and services the client offers
- D. The latestrelease notes found at help salesforce.com>salesforce CPQ patch notes
- E. An approval matrix documentation that describe theapprovals needed before a quoteis sent to the customer

Answer: A,C,E

Explanation:
A Revenue Cloud consultant needs to understand the client's business, their products or services, and their sales process before they can effectively scope a Revenue Cloud project.
A) A sample proposal the client provides to their customers: This document can give the consultant insights into the client's current sales process, pricing strategies, and customer interactions1.
B) Brochures that provide detail to the products and services the client offers: These materials can help the consultant understand the client's product offerings, their unique selling points, and how they position themselves in the market1.
D) An approval matrix documentation that describes the approvals needed before a quote is sent to the customer: This document can help the consultant understand the client's internal approval processes, which is crucial for configuring the approval workflows in Revenue Cloud2.
C) The latest release notes found at help.salesforce.com>salesforce CPQ patch notes: While these notes are important for staying updated on the latest features and bug fixes in Salesforce CPQ, they may not directly help the consultant understand the client's specific project requirements3.
E) The client's income statements and balance sheet: While these financial documents can provide valuable insights into the client's financial health and performance, they may not directly contribute to understanding the client's Revenue Cloud project requirements1.

NEW QUESTION # 147

NEW QUESTION # 148
What does the 'safe harbor' slide at the beginning of every salesforce presentationmeans?

- A. anything presented from salesforce must be kept confidentialmergers and acquisitions integrations are immediate
- B. You and or your customer aremaking scoping,design,planning,purchasing making decisions based on current and available capabilities

- C. roadmap capability will be released exactly as they are demonstrated
- D. new release capabilities will not have impact to existing implementations

Answer: B

Explanation:
The 'safe harbor' slide at the beginning of every Salesforce presentation is a legal disclaimer that informs the audience that the presentation may contain forward-looking statements about the company's future products, features, capabilities, performance, and financial results. These statements are based on the company's current expectations, assumptions, and projections, and are subject to risks, uncertainties, and changes that may cause the actual results to differ materially from the statements. Therefore, the audience should not rely on these statements as guarantees or promises of future performance or availability, and should make their own independent decisions based on the current and available capabilities of the company. The 'safe harbor' slide also directs the audience to the company's website, where they can find more information about the factors that may affect the forward-looking statements, as well as the company's most recent financial reports and filings. 12 References:
