Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q53-Q58):

NEW QUESTION # 53

The storefront integrates with a REST based Address verification service (AVS) that uses token based security. The sequence of calls in the API documentation for this AVS looks like the following

1. Client authentication call, which contains the merchantId and secret in a GET request and returns a token in the response.
2. Address verification call, which contains the token and the address to verify in a POST request.

Once the token is obtained, it is valid for hours and it is not needed to request a new one for subsequent address verification calls, the AVS charges for every request made no matter if it is client authentication call or address verification call.

Which three strategies could be applied to allow for efficient use of the service without compromising security? Choose 3 answers

- A. Obtain the token from a custom cache before making the client authentication call.
- B. Use HTTPService caching for the client authentication call.
- C. Apply page caching to the client authentication controller that is used with AJAX.
- D. Use a job to store and update the token in a custom object that is used from the storefront code
- E. Obtain the token from local storage of the browser and update it once It expires.

Answer: A,B,D

Explanation:

To efficiently use the REST-based Address Verification Service (AVS) while maintaining security, it is crucial to manage token usage and refresh effectively. Using a custom cache to store the token (Answer C) prevents unnecessary authentication calls by reusing the valid token, thus reducing the number of chargeable requests. Implementing HTTPService caching for the client authentication call (Answer D) optimizes the performance by caching the response, thereby avoiding repetitive and unnecessary calls. Lastly, employing a scheduled job to regularly update and store the token in a custom object (Answer E) ensures that the token is always up-to-date and available for use without repeated authentication, thus optimizing the cost and efficiency of using the AVS.

NEW QUESTION # 54

An Architect has been approached by the Business with a request to create a custom product finder. The finder would initially be available on only one site, and would eventually be extended to be available on all sites the Business maintains. There is a requirement that these widgets are also available to be used in a Job context for export to other systems.

Each site will have a different category available for use by the product finder.

Where should the Architect store the custom settings for use on both the storefront and in a job context?

- A. Category custom attributes
- B. Custom Object with an Organizational Scope
- C. Custom Object with a Site Scope
- D. Jobs Framework parameters

Answer: B

Explanation:

To manage custom settings for a product finder that needs to be accessible both on the storefront and in a job context, storing these settings in a Custom Object with an Organizational Scope is most appropriate. This allows the settings to be centralized and accessible across different sites and job contexts, ensuring consistency and reusability of the configurations:

* Organizational Scope: Enables settings to be shared across multiple sites without duplicating data, maintaining a single source of truth for configurations that affect various parts of the organization.

* Custom Object: Provides the flexibility to define specific attributes and values that are unique to the business requirements of the product finder and other integrations.

NEW QUESTION # 55

A developer wants to import the data on different instances.

Which two types of data should the developer consider importing?

Choose 2 answers

- A. Catalog
- B. Sites configurations
- C. Metadata
- D. Services
- E. Customers

Answer: A,E

Explanation:

When importing data between instances, focusing on significant and impactful data types is essential:

* Option B (Catalog): Includes all product listings, descriptions, categorizations, and relationships. It's crucial for the eCommerce operation, directly affecting site navigation and customer experience.

* Option C (Customers): Customer data import is essential for maintaining continuity in customer relationships, access, and personalization across platforms.

These data types are fundamental to the functioning of an eCommerce site and ensure that essential operational data is consistent across different environments or platform migrations.

NEW QUESTION # 56

The Client is planning to switch to a new Payment Service Provider (PSP). They have approached an Architect to understand the time and effort to integrate the new PSP. The PSP offers a LINK cartridge compatible with SiteGenesis Pipelines, but the Client's website is built on Controllers.

Which two options should the Architect take into consideration before starting analysis? Choose 2 answers

- A. Produce a proof of concept converting the most essential pipelines into controllers and integrate the cartridge.
- B. Look for a different PSP that supports controllers and would not require conversion efforts.
- C. Estimate the effort and risk to convert the LINK cartridge from pipelines to controllers.
- D. Reach out to the PSP development team and ask if a new cartridge version that supports controllers is under development

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

When integrating a new Payment Service Provider (PSP) LINK cartridge designed for SiteGenesis Pipelines into a site built on Controllers, consider these options:

* Option A (Estimate the effort and risk to convert the LINK cartridge from pipelines to controllers): Assessing the effort involved in converting the cartridge provides insight into the project scope, helping to manage risk and allocate resources effectively.

* Option B (Reach out to the PSP development team and ask if a new cartridge version that supports controllers is under development): This can potentially save significant development time and resources if a compatible version is already planned or in progress.

These approaches help in making an informed decision on integration strategies, balancing between customization efforts and leveraging existing solutions.

NEW QUESTION # 57

The Client is Crowding and decided to migrate its ecommerce website to B2C Commerce. The Client provided the Architect with the metrics for its existing website over the past 12 months and forecasted into the next year:

Average visits per hour	500
Peak visits per hour	1000
Average page views per hour	10000
Peak page views per hour	20000
Average orders per hour	100
Peak orders per hour	250
Average items per order	2.1
Average order value	300 USD
Expected growth percentage	300

Noting these historical metrics and the forecasted growth of 300%, which load test targets meet best practices for testing the new B2C Commerce site?

- A. 150000 visits per hour, 3000000 page views per hour, and 37500 orders per hour
- B. 15000 visits per hour, 300000 page views per hour, and 3750 orders per hour
- C. 1500 visits per hour, 30000 page views per hour, and 375 orders per hour
- D. 3000 visits per hour, 60000 page views per hour, and 750 orders per hour

Answer: B

Explanation:

Considering the existing metrics and forecasted 300% growth, the appropriate load testing targets for the new B2C Commerce site would be:

* 15000 visits per hour: This figure is calculated by applying the expected growth to the peak visits per hour (1000 visits), resulting in 4000 visits. The choice of 15000 provides a higher buffer to accommodate unforeseen spikes in traffic.

* 300000 page views per hour: Similarly, this is scaled up from the peak page views per hour (20000) considering the growth, ensuring the site can handle high demand and interactions.

* 3750 orders per hour: This target is based on the peak orders per hour (250) with the growth applied, allowing testing of the system's ability to handle transactions under significant load.

These targets ensure that the system is robust enough to handle increased traffic and transactions without performance degradation, crucial for maintaining customer satisfaction and operational stability.
