127 QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

1. Which of the following is the best definition of "vision" regarding creating an organisational vision statement?

- a. The ability to see the future
- b. An ideal future state
- c. A realistic action plan for future performance
- d. An outline of future organizational purpose. - ANSWER 1. B: In the creation of an organizational vision statement, vision is a description—realistic or not—of an ideal future state. This description of an ideal future state gives shape to the goals of an organization. A vision statement does not involve detailed descriptions about the specific actions necessary for bringing the vision to fruition.

2. A patient care team is in disagreement over new admissions procedures. What decision-making model should management use?

- a. Decision criteria
- b. Consensus
- c. Invocation
- d. Tenure influence. - ANSWER 2. A: Decision criteria is a decision-making model that explores all options equally and gives unorthodox or unpopular options a fair chance, even when they are under dispute. Consensus is not the best choice because this approach often reduces decisions to options that everyone likes and discounts the unorthodox or unpopular options that could be appropriate and viable.

NAHQ Certified Professional in Healthcare Quality Examination Sample Questions (Q719-Q724):

NEW QUESTION # 719

Which of the following strategies promotes timely completion of a quality improvement project?

- A. allowing the project sponsor to direct the project team's work
- B. assigning the team leader to document overall project progress
- C. requiring team members to devote a majority of their time to project work
- D. focusing routine senior leader updates on project successes

Answer: C

Explanation:

To promote the timely completion of a quality improvement project, it is crucial to ensure that there is effective management of the project's progress and that team members are dedicated and focused on the tasks at hand.

Requiring team members to devote a majority of their time to project work: This approach ensures that sufficient time is allocated to the project, minimizing distractions from other duties and speeding up project completion. It highlights commitment and prioritizes the project among other responsibilities.

Among these, Option C is the most direct and effective strategy to promote timely completion, as it prioritizes the project within the team members' workload, ensuring dedicated efforts towards project tasks.

NEW QUESTION # 720

Which of the following is true of a clinical pathway?

- A. required for accountable care organizations
- B. depicted using a value stream map
- C. limited to one patient care setting
- D. used to reduce variations in care

Answer: D

Explanation:

A clinical pathway, also known as a care pathway, is a multidisciplinary management tool based on evidence-based practice for a specific group of patients with a predictable clinical course¹². It details the steps in a course of treatment or care in a plan, pathway, algorithm, guideline, protocol, or other

'inventory of actions'¹. The main purpose of a clinical pathway is to reduce variation and improve the quality of care¹³²⁴⁵. It is not necessarily depicted using a value stream map (option A), not limited to one patient care setting (option B), and not required for accountable care organizations (option D).
