Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q13-Q18):

NEW QUESTION # 13

The Client wants to offer custom made container products on its new B2C Commerce storefront. TheClient provided two business requirements.

- * Customer can specify container length, width, and height.
- * Customer can specify the material that the container is made of.

The Client also provided the Architect a current data schema (shown below) for reference while preparing the technical documentation.

Which two gaps between the requirements and the data schema should the Architect discuss with the Client?
Choose 2 answers

- A. The data schema includes a material Price_Markup field, but there Isn't a business requirement to factor the material cost Into the final price calculation.
- B. The data schema includes unique identifiers for material and color fields, but neither are reflected in the business requirements.
- C. The data schema includes a Color_ID field, but there isn't a business requirement to allow the customer to specify container color.
- D. The data schema includes an implied structure that the customer's choices should be captured as custom objects, but there isn't a business requirement to do so

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

The provided data schema includes several fields that do not match the stated business requirements, which focus on the custom dimensions and materials of the containers:

* Option A: The inclusion of unique identifiers for materials and color fields in the data schema suggests a level of detail and structure around these attributes that is not reflected in the business requirements. If the business does not require tracking or differentiating materials beyond just naming them, this might be unnecessarily complex.

* Option D: The data schema includes a Color_ID field, which implies the ability to specify the color of the container. However, the business requirements do not mention color as a customization option available to customers. This discrepancy needs to be addressed to ensure that the database design aligns with actual business needs.

NEW QUESTION # 14

A business wants to migrate its customerservice provider from provider A to provider B. Provider e offers a LINK cartridge to integrate with its commerce solution.

Which three artifacts need to be created by the Architect? Choose 3 answers

- A. Document how the customer online journey flown from landing on the page to placing of the order
- B. Document the data mapping between commerce and customer service provider.
- C. Document the customizations required on top of the LINK cartridge based on current commerce implementation and business needs.
- D. Document the design of implementing a new B2C Commerce cartridge following the Industry standard best practices
- E. Document the data objects, the interface, and data synchronization frequency between the systems.

Answer: C,D,E

Explanation:

When integrating a new LINK cartridge for a customer service provider, the following documents are essential:

- * Option A (Document the design of implementing a new B2C Commerce cartridge following the industry standard best practices): This ensures that the cartridge is implemented in a manner that is consistent with established best practices, enhancing maintainability and compatibility.
 - * Option B (Document the data objects, the interface, and data synchronization frequency between the systems): It's crucial to define how data will flow between the new customer service provider and the commerce system, including the frequency of synchronization to ensure data integrity and timeliness.
 - * Option D (Document the customizations required on top of the LINK cartridge based on current commerce implementation and business needs): Customizing the cartridge to fit the specific needs and existing setup of the commerce system ensures that the integration adds the intended value without disrupting existing operations.
- These artifacts will guide the structured integration and customization of the LINK cartridge, ensuring it meets the business's operational and strategic needs.

NEW QUESTION # 15

The client provided these business requirements:

- * The B2C Commerce platform will integrate with the Client's Order Management System (OMS).
- * The OMS supports Integration using REST services.
- * The OMS is hosted on the Client's infrastructure.

What configurations are needed for this integration with the OMS?

- A. A service profile configuration, a WAF configuration, and a service credential configuration.
- B. A service configuration, a hostname alias configuration, and a user credential configuration.
- C. A service configuration, a service profile configuration, and a service credential configuration.
- D. A service configuration, a service profile configuration, and a user credential configuration.

Answer: C

Explanation:

For integrating the B2C Commerce platform with the client's OMS using REST services, the required configurations include:

- * Service Configuration: This specifies the service endpoints, HTTP methods, and any other service-specific settings necessary for the integration.
 - * Service Profile Configuration: This defines the behavior of the service such as timeout settings, retry logic, and cache settings.
 - * Service Credential Configuration: This involves setting up the credentials that will be used to authenticate the requests to the client's OMS. These credentials are often managed securely through encrypted storage and retrieval mechanisms.
- These configurations ensure secure, efficient, and reliable communication between the B2C Commerce platform and the client's OMS, adhering to best practices in web service integration.

NEW QUESTION # 16

During load testing, a third party service is constantly failing to respond in a timely manner on the Product Listing Page. The page is not affected as it is collecting data with the server side call, however the loading time is increasing.

Which two recommendations should the developer take in order to minimize the risk and improve the loading time?

Choose 2 answers

- A. Ask the third party to improve the reliability of the service.
- B. Enable the Circuit Breaker.
- C. Decrease the service timeout.
- D. Load the data asynchronously after the page is loaded
- E. Remove the service.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

In scenarios where a third-party service impacts page performance, implementing a Circuit Breaker pattern (Option B) can prevent the service from becoming a bottleneck. This pattern helps manage failing service calls by temporarily disabling the service interaction when failures reach a certain threshold, allowing it to recover. Asynchronously loading the data (Option D) ensures the page's primary content loads without delay, while data from the third-party service is fetched in the background, improving the user's perceived performance and page load times.

NEW QUESTION # 17

A Client has automated builds that deploy the code; however, recent builds started failing with compilation issues, which are not reproducible in developer's environment.

What first step needs to be taken to identify and fix the issue?

- A. Recreate the job in the build server to verify compilation issues.
- B. Verify the generated JavaScript and CSS for the build.
- C. Clean up build server work space and run job again.
- D. Verify the modules versions used to generate the code.

Answer: C

Explanation:

When facing build failures that are not reproducible in developers' environments, a common and effective first step is to clean up the build server workspace (Answer A). This action clears any residual files, settings, or data that might be influencing the build process and causing discrepancies between local and server builds. By resetting the workspace to a clean state, it helps ensure that the build process is starting from a consistent base, potentially resolving issues caused by stale data or corrupted build artifacts. This step often resolves hidden configuration or environment-specific issues that are not immediately apparent in the code or module versions.
