Psychiatric Rehabilitation Association Certified Psychiatric Rehabilitation Practitioner 認定 CPRP 試験問題 (Q121-Q126):

質問 # 121

Community integration facilitates opportunities for activities that are

- A. staff led.
- B. self-directed.
- C. group directed.
- D. peer led.

正解: B

解説:

Community integration aims to empower individuals with psychiatric disabilities to participate fully in community life through activities that reflect their choices and autonomy. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration) emphasizes supporting self-directed activities that align with individualmeant by the individual's preferences (Task III.A.3: "Support individuals in pursuing self-directed community activities"). Option D (self-directed) aligns with this, as community integration facilitates opportunities for activities chosen by the individual-such as employment, volunteering, or hobbies-that promote independence and meaningful community roles.

Option A (peer led) is relevant for peer support but narrower, as not all community activities are peer-led.

Option B (staff led) contradicts the recovery-oriented focus on autonomy, as staff-led activities are more program-based. Option C (group directed) is less precise, as group activities may not always reflect individual choice. The PRA Study Guide highlights self-directed activities as the hallmark of community integration, supporting Option D.

質問 # 122

Which of the following factors predict housing stability for individuals with psychiatric disabilities?

- A. Stable employment and medication compliance.
- B. Symptoms and medication compliance.
- C. Social skills and personal choice on where to live.
- D. Stable employment and personal choice on where to live.

Housing stability is a key outcome of community integration for individuals with psychiatric disabilities, requiring both practical resources and personal empowerment. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III:

Community Integration) highlights the importance of stable resources (e.g., income from employment) and self-determination (e.g., choice in housing) as predictors of housing stability (Task III.A.1: "Support individuals in accessing and maintaining stable housing").

Option A (stable employment and personal choice on where to live) aligns with this, as employment provides financial stability to afford housing, and personal choice ensures the housing meets the individual's preferences and needs, fostering long-term stability.

Option B (social skills and personal choice) is less predictive, as social skills are secondary to financial and choice-related factors in maintaining housing. Option C (symptoms and medication compliance) may influence stability but is not as directly predictive as economic and autonomy factors, as symptom management does not guarantee housing retention without resources. Option D (stable employment and medication compliance) omits the critical role of personal choice, which is central to recovery-oriented housing outcomes. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes employment and choice as key drivers of housing stability, supporting Option A.

質問 # 123

An individual asks a practitioner whether or not he should disclose his disability to a potential employer after being offered a position. One thing the practitioner recommends the individual to consider is:

- A. That the offer will be rescinded.
- B. The right of the employer to be made aware of his disability.
- C. How much detail to disclose.
- D. The relationship between the agency and that employer.

正解: C

解説:

This question falls under Domain III: Community Integration, which focuses on supporting individuals in employment settings, including navigating disability disclosure decisions. The CPRP Exam Blueprint emphasizes "assisting individuals in making informed decisions about disability disclosure, including considering the level of detail to share based on their needs and workplace context." The individual has been offered a job and is deciding whether to disclose his disability, and the practitioner's role is to guide him in weighing relevant factors.

* Option C: Recommending that the individual consider how much detail to disclose is the best guidance, as it empowers him to make an informed decision about whether to disclose and, if so, to what extent (e.g., general disability vs. specific diagnosis). This aligns with recovery-oriented principles of self-determination and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), which does not require disclosure unless accommodations are needed.

* Option A: There is no legal "right" for an employer to be aware of a disability unless it directly impacts job performance or accommodations are requested, making this inaccurate and potentially coercive.

* Option B: Warning that the offer will be rescinded assumes a negative outcome, which is speculative and may discourage the individual unnecessarily.

* Option D: The agency's relationship with the employer is irrelevant to the individual's personal decision about disclosure and does not prioritize his autonomy or needs.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration):

"Tasks include: 2. Supporting individuals in making informed decisions about disability disclosure in employment settings, including the level of detail to share. 3. Promoting self-advocacy in workplace contexts."

質問 # 124

An individual is referred to a psychiatric rehabilitation program after a brief inpatient hospitalization. During a meeting with his practitioner and his mother, who is a primary support, she reports her son "is doing better, should find a job and stop medication; then everything will be fine." The practitioner's FIRST BEST approach is to

- A. acknowledge the mother's statement while engaging the individual in a discussion about his goals and objectives.
- B. engage the mother in a discussion about the importance of medication adherence and why her son is doing better.
- C. discuss with the mother the likelihood of her son finding and maintaining employment.
- D. discuss with the individual and his mother, services that will incorporate medication, education, and employment.

正解: A

解説:

When a family member expresses opinions that may not align with recovery-oriented principles, the practitioner must prioritize the individual's autonomy while respectfully engaging supports. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies) emphasizes person-centered engagement by acknowledging family input while focusing on the individual's goals to build trust and collaboration (Task I.B.

1: "Collaborate with individuals and their support systems to address barriers in a culturally competent manner"). Option D (acknowledge the mother's statement while engaging the individual in a discussion about his goals and objectives) aligns with this, as it validates the mother's perspective, maintains a positive relationship, and centers the individual's aspirations, ensuring the plan reflects his priorities post- hospitalization.

Option A (discuss services incorporating medication, education, employment) is prescriptive and assumes solutions without first exploring the individual's goals. Option B (discuss medication adherence) risks alienating the mother by focusing on correction rather than collaboration. Option C (discuss employment likelihood) sidelines the individual's voice and does not address the mother's broader statement. The PRA Study Guide underscores person-centered engagement with family involvement as critical in initial meetings, supporting Option D.

質問 # 125

What is the best location for learning the skills and activities of food preparation?

- A. A residential program with an intensive skill-training component
- B. The kitchen unit of a Clubhouse
- C. A community college which offers cooking courses near the individual's home
- D. The individual's own home

正解: D

解説:

This question pertains to Domain III: Community Integration, which emphasizes providing services in natural, normalized environments to promote independence and skill development. The CPRP Exam Blueprint highlights "teaching skills in the individual's own environment to enhance generalization and community integration." Learning food preparation skills is most effective in a setting where the individual will apply them, ensuring relevance and practicality.

Option B: The individual's own home is the best location, as it is the natural environment where food preparation will occur. Learning in this setting ensures skills are tailored to the individual's kitchen, resources, and routines, promoting generalization and independence, which aligns with recovery-oriented principles.

Option A: A residential program may provide structured training but is less normalized and may not reflect the individual's actual living situation, limiting skill transfer.

Option C: A community college cooking course is a community-based option but may be too generalized or inaccessible (e.g., cost, transportation), and it is not tailored to the individual's home environment.

Option D: A Clubhouse kitchen unit offers a supportive environment but is not the individual's natural setting, reducing the direct applicability of learned skills.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration):

"Tasks include: 1. Supporting skill development in natural environments, such as the individual's home, to promote independence. 2. Providing services in settings that enhance community integration and skill generalization." References:
