Medical Professional Certified Case Manager Certification Exam (CCM) Sample Questions (Q66-Q71):

NEW QUESTION # 66

FIDIC Red, Yellow, and Silver Books (both editions) contain a provision for the Engineer or Employer to instruct the Contractor to employ a subcontractor, thereby also permitting the Contractor to refuse to employ such proposed subcontractor on the basis of a reasonable objection by a notice. Is this statement true or false?

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

All main FIDIC contract editions contain provisions that allow the Employer or Engineer to propose or instruct the Contractor to employ certain subcontractors (e.g., nominated subcontractors). The Contractor retains the right to refuse such subcontractors only for reasonable cause, which must be communicated formally.

This mechanism protects the Employer's interests in subcontractor selection while safeguarding the Contractor's right to reject subcontractors that may not be competent or suitable.

Therefore, the statement is true.

NEW QUESTION # 67

Which of the following FIDIC contract forms require certification in the payment process? (2 correct answers apply) Choose all of the correct answers (multiple possibilities).

- A. FIDIC Conditions of Contract for EPC/Turnkey Projects ("Silver Book").
- B. FIDIC Conditions of Contract for Construction ("Red Book").
- C. FIDIC Conditions of Contract for Plant and Design Build ("Yellow Book").

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

Options A and B are correct: Both the Red and Yellow Books require the Engineer to certify payments before the Employer pays the Contractor.

Option C (Silver Book) typically places the risk on the Contractor and often provides for payment without Engineer certification, reflecting the turnkey nature of the contract.

NEW QUESTION # 68

Which one of the following statements best describes the requirements of Time for Completion?

- A. This is the Contractor's fundamental time-related obligation, namely completion the whole of the Works within the Time for Completion calculated from the Commencement Date.
- B. This is the Contractor's fundamental time-related obligation, namely the completion of most of the Works (except minor outstanding works), within the Time for Completion calculated from the Commencement Date.
- C. This is one of the Contractor's obligations, namely the completion of most of the Works (except minor outstanding works), within the Time for Completion calculated from the Effective Date.
- D. This is one of the Contractor's obligations, namely the completion of most of the Works (except minor outstanding works), within the Time for Completion calculated from the Commencement Date.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Option A best describes the Time for Completion as the Contractor's fundamental obligation to complete the entire Works within the contractual Time for Completion, calculated from the Commencement Date.

Options B, C, and D incorrectly limit the scope to "most" of the Works or confuse the reference date.

The Time for Completion sets the critical timeline for contract performance and triggering of delay damages or extensions.

NEW QUESTION # 69

The procurement process of a project executed based on any FIDIC Contract model is exactly the same in terms of definitions, time and steps, which makes it universal and more easy to use worldwide. Is this statement true or false?

- A. False

- B. True

Answer: A

Explanation:

This statement is false. While FIDIC Contracts provide standardized contractual frameworks, procurement processes vary widely depending on local laws, employer requirements, contract editions, and project specifics. Definitions, timelines, and procurement steps may differ between models and jurisdictions, making the procurement process not universally identical.

The FIDIC contracts are adaptable tools, not rigid procurement procedures, so users must tailor procurement to local and project needs.

NEW QUESTION # 70

You are the Contract Manager for the Engineer in a highway project using FIDIC Red Book (edition 1999).

There is a Schedule of cost indexation included in the Contract. The project must be completed by 31 December of this year. If the Contractor fails to complete the Works by then, how will the adjustment of prices take place thereafter?

- A. Either the current index/price, or index or price applicable on the date 49 days before the expiry of the Time for Completion of the Works, whichever agreed by Parties.
- B. The current index or price.
- C. Each index or price applicable on the date 49 days before the expiry of the Time for Completion of the Works.
- D. Either the current index/price, or index or price applicable on the date 49 days before the expiry of the Time for Completion of the Works, whichever is more favourable to the Employer.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

Under FIDIC Red Book 1999, price adjustments after the Time for Completion are based on the indices or prices applicable on the date 49 days before the expiry of the Time for Completion, not the current index. This prevents the Contractor from benefiting from price fluctuations after the contract period.

This clause ensures fairness by locking the price basis as of a fixed reference date, protecting the Employer from increased costs due to delays.
