- A. import updateiccounta from 'AccountConctroller':
- B. import updatelccounts from '@aalesforce/apeax/AccountController':
- C. import updatelccounta from 'RAccountContraller,updateiccounta';
- D. import updase'Accounts from

Answer: D

Explanation:
'@=salesforce/apex/AccountController ., updateaccounts';
Explanation:
When importing an Apex method into a Lightning Web Component (LWC), the correct syntax is:
import methodName from '@salesforce/apex/ClassName.methodName';
Option D: import updateAccounts from '@salesforce/apex/AccountController.updateaccounts'; Correct Syntax.
import updateAccounts:
Specifies the JavaScript function name to reference in the LWC.
from '@salesforce/apex/AccountController.updateaccounts';:
Indicates that we are importing from an Apex class named AccountController, and the method is updateaccounts.
Case Sensitivity:
The class and method names are case-sensitive and should match the Apex code.
Reference:

Does not specify the method to import.
Option B: import updateaccounts from 'AccountController';
Incorrect Module Path:
Missing the @salesforce/apex/ prefix.
Reference to Class Only:

Option C: import updateaccounts from 'c/AccountController.updateaccounts'; Incorrect Namespace:
'c/' is used for importing custom JavaScript modules, not Apex methods.
Incorrect Module Path:
Should use @salesforce/apex/ for Apex methods.
Conclusion:
The correct code statement is Option D, which follows the proper syntax for importing an Apex method into an LWC.

NEW QUESTION # 26

Which two characteristics are true for Lightning Web Component custom events?
Choose 2 answers

- A. Data may be passed In the payload of a custom event using a wire decorated properties.
- B. Data may be passed in the payload of a custom event using a property called detail.
- C. By default a custom event only propagates to it's immediate container.
- D. By default a custom event only propagates to its immediate container and to its immediate child component.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:
The correct answer is C and D because they are the characteristics of Lightning Web Component custom events as described in the Salesforce documentation1. A custom event is an event that a component fires to communicate data to other components. By default, a custom event only propagates to its immediate container, which is the component that created it or the component that hosts the component that created it. To propagate the event beyond the immediate container, the component that fires the event must set the composed property of the event to true. A custom event can pass data to other components in the payload using a property called detail, which can be any JavaScript object. The other options are incorrect because they are not true for Lightning Web Component custom events. Option A is incorrect because a wire decorated property is a property that is automatically updated with data from a Salesforce org or an Apex method. It is not related to custom events. Option B is incorrect because a custom event does not propagate to its immediate child component by default, unless the child component is the one that fires the event or the event is composed. NEW QUESTION # 27

Managers at Universal Containers want to ensure that only decommissioned containers are able to be deleted in the system. To meet the business requirement a Salesforce developer adds "Decommissioned" as a picklist value for the Status _c custom field within the Container _c object.
Which two approaches could a developer use to enforce only Container records with a status of "Decommissioned" can be deleted?
Choose 2 answers

- A. Validation rule
- B. After record-triggered flow
- C. Before record-triggered flaw
- D. Apex trigger

Answer: A,D

Explanation:
Apex Trigger (Option B):
An Apex trigger can be written on theContainer__cobject to prevent deletion unless theStatus__cfield value is "Decommissioned".
This allows custom logic to be executed during the deletion process.
Apex Triggers Documentation
Validation Rule (Option D):
A validation rule is typically used to enforce conditions during record creation or update. However, it cannot directly restrict deletions.
To ensure deletion restriction, an Apex trigger is more effective.
Not Suitable:
Option A(Before record-triggered flow): Flows triggered "before delete" are not available.
Option C(After record-triggered flow): These occur after a record is deleted, so they cannot prevent the deletion process.
