NEW QUESTION # 94

You have captured 802.11 traffic using an adapter that includes the radio tap header. You see several frames often called announcement frames in the capture.

What best describes these types of frames?

- A. They only include beacon and probe response frames
- B. They are meant to provide information to the network that may result in state changes, but they are not open for rejection
- C. They only include beacon and probe request frames
- D. They are used to allow a STA to awake from sleep and for no other reason

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 95

You want to simplify viewing frames of a particular type in Wireshark.

What is used to specify frames for colorization?

- A. Automated protocol analysis is used and no additional options may be specified
- B. Filters are used to define the frames that should be colorized
- C. A scripting language is available to modify the code before recompilation
- D. Custom code must be written and the binaries recompiled

Answer: B

Explanation:

Protocol analyzers also support highlighting or colorization and filtering. The highlighting feature allows you to define colors for packets or frames matching particular criteria. It allows those frames to stand out as you browse through the captured frames
