Salesforce Certified Slack Consultant Sample Questions (Q83-Q88):

NEW QUESTION # 83

You are meeting with a client who has been using Slack for basic communication. What question would be most useful to understand their needs for expanding Slack usage?

- A. "How many employees in your organization have installed Slack on their mobile devices?"
- B. "What specific challenges are you currently facing with team communication and collaboration?"
- C. "Can you list all the software tools your teams are using apart from Slack?"
- D. "How often do your employees use Slack's custom emoji feature?"

Answer: B

Explanation:

Asking about specific challenges with team communication and collaboration is most useful for understanding how the client might expand their use of Slack. This question helps identify pain points in their current use and potential areas where Slack's advanced features could be beneficial.

NEW QUESTION # 84

A tech startup is reorganizing its Slack workspace for better team collaboration. They are considering how to name their channels effectively. What approach should they take for channel naming to enhance workspace organization?

- A. Use the names of team pets or favorite characters for a personal touch
- B. Allow team members to name channels based on personal preferences or inside jokes
- C. Use a consistent naming convention based on project names or functional areas
- D. Assign random alphanumeric codes to channels for brevity

Answer: C

Explanation:

Using a consistent naming convention based on project names or functional areas helps team members quickly identify the relevant channels for their work, thereby enhancing efficiency and organization in the workspace.

NEW QUESTION # 85

You are designing a Slack grid for a client who has multiple teams working on different projects. Based on the discovery outputs, which approach should you recommend for the grid structure?

- A. Only private channels for each team to ensure confidentiality and avoid information overload
- B. Randomly assigning team members to channels to encourage diverse interactions
- C. Separate channels for each project and team, with additional channels for cross-team collaboration and organization-wide announcements
- D. A single channel for the entire organization to streamline communication

Answer: C

Explanation:

Based on the discovery that the client has multiple teams working on different projects, it is best to recommend separate channels for each project and team. This allows for focused communication within teams and projects. Additionally, having channels for cross-team collaboration and organization-wide announcements ensures comprehensive communication throughout the organization.

NEW QUESTION # 86

In preparing for a Slack migration, you are tasked with user clean-up in the current communication system. What is the most effective first step?

- A. Identify and remove inactive user accounts that have not been used for an extended period
- B. Upgrade all user accounts to premium before migrating them to Slack
- C. Ask all employees to self-identify if they are active or inactive users
- D. Immediately migrate all user accounts, including inactive ones, to Slack

Answer: A

Explanation:

The most effective first step in user clean-up is to identify and remove inactive accounts. This process streamlines the migration by ensuring that only relevant and active user data is transferred to Slack, making the migration more efficient and reducing clutter in the new system.

NEW QUESTION # 87

A healthcare organization wants to use Slack to streamline their internal administrative processes while ensuring compliance with health privacy regulations. Which process would be best suited for migration to Slack?

- A. Storing detailed medical research data and confidential trial results
- B. Managing and discussing individual patient records and sensitive health information
- C. Hosting virtual consultations with patients using Slack video calls
- D. Coordinating staff schedules, shift changes, and general announcements

Answer: D

Explanation:

Slack is well-suited for coordinating staff schedules, managing shift changes, and making general announcements. This use case allows for efficient and real-time communication among staff, without involving sensitive patient information, thus aligning with privacy regulations.
