CompTIA Cybersecurity Analyst (CySA+) Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q501-Q506):

NEW QUESTION # 501

An analyst produces a weekly endpoint status report for the management team. The report includes specific details for each endpoint in relation to organizational baselines. Which of the following best describes the report type?

- A. Vulnerability
- B. Mitigation
- C. Compliance
- D. Forensics

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 502

A security analyst is reviewing events that occurred during a possible compromise. The analyst obtains the following log:
□ Which of the following is most likely occurring, based on the events in the log?

- A. An adversary is attempting to find the shortest path of compromise.
- B. An adversary is performing a vulnerability scan.
- C. An adversary is performing a password stuffing attack.
- D. An adversary is escalating privileges.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Based on the events in the log, the most likely occurrence is that an adversary is performing a vulnerability scan. The log shows LDAP read operations and EDR enumerating local groups, which are indicative of an adversary scanning the system to find vulnerabilities or sensitive information. The final entry shows SMB connection attempts to multiple hosts from a single host, which could be a sign of network discovery or lateral movement. ### NEW QUESTION # 503

A company is implementing a vulnerability management program and moving from an on-premises environment to a hybrid IaaS cloud environment. Which of the following implications should be considered on the new hybrid environment?

- A. The current scanners should be migrated to the cloud
- B. Existing vulnerability scanners cannot scan IaaS systems
- C. Cloud-specific misconfigurations may not be detected by the current scanners
- D. Vulnerability scans on cloud environments should be performed from the cloud

Answer: C

Explanation:

Cloud-specific misconfigurations are security issues that arise from improper or inadequate configuration of cloud resources, such as storage buckets, databases, virtual machines, or containers. Cloud-specific misconfigurations may not be detected by the current scanners that are designed for on-premises environments, as they may not have the visibility or access to the cloud resources or the cloud provider's APIs. Therefore, one of the implications that should be considered on the new hybrid environment is that cloud-specific misconfigurations may not be detected by the current scanners.

NEW QUESTION # 504

An auditor is reviewing an evidence log associated with a cyber crime. The auditor notices that a gap exists between individuals who were responsible for holding onto and transferring the evidence between individuals responsible for the investigation. Which of the following best describes the evidence handling process that was not properly followed?

- A. Validating data integrity
- B. Preservation
- C. Chain of custody
- D. Legal hold

Answer: C

Explanation:

The chain of custody is a documented history that tracks how evidence is handled, collected, transported, and preserved at every stage of the forensic investigation. If a gap exists in the record of who transferred or accessed the evidence, it could call into question the integrity and admissibility of the evidence.
