NEW QUESTION # 334

You are using IBM's Tuning Studio to fine-tune a large-scale foundation model for a customer service chatbot. The goal is to optimize the model for performance in handling a wide variety of customer queries while minimizing computational costs. Before making any changes, you want to understand how Tuning Studio can help achieve your optimization goals.

Which of the following is the most significant benefit provided by Tuning Studio when optimizing a generative AI model?

- A. Tuning Studio allows the user to implement custom model architectures from scratch to meet specific task requirements.
- B. Tuning Studio automatically deploys the fine-tuned model to production environments without requiring further testing.
- C. Tuning Studio provides real-time monitoring of model performance metrics during the fine-tuning process, allowing you to adjust hyperparameters effectively.
- D. Tuning Studio reduces the dataset size needed for training by implementing automated data augmentation strategies.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 335

You are tasked with generating creative text outputs using an AI language model for a marketing campaign. You want to ensure that the responses are diverse and unexpected but still somewhat relevant to the prompt.

Which combination of temperature and random seed should you use to achieve this?

- A. Temperature: 1.0, Random Seed: 0
- B. Temperature: 1.5, Random Seed: 123
- C. Temperature: 0.1, Random Seed: 42
- D. Temperature: 0.7, Random Seed: None

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 336

In the context of IBM Watsonx Generative AI models, hallucinations refer to outputs where the model generates text that is factually incorrect or not grounded in the provided input or training data. Understanding the underlying causes of hallucinations is critical for maintaining the reliability of the model.

Which of the following best describes a primary cause of hallucinations in generative models?

- A. The model's training on incomplete or unstructured datasets leading to incorrect generalizations.
- B. The model's over-reliance on token repetition to form coherent sentences.
- C. The model's use of a greedy decoding strategy without beam search.
- D. The model's incapacity to follow the temperature parameter settings.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 337

You are tasked with creating a prompt-tuned model that generates optimal, task-specific responses for a financial advisory chatbot. Your goal is to improve the model's accuracy in answering financial queries, and you need to determine the right parameters to focus on during the tuning process.

Which two of the following strategies are most effective in optimizing prompt-tuned models for accuracy? (Select two)

- A. Choose an initial learning rate that is high to encourage faster convergence during the fine-tuning process.
- B. Apply a low temperature setting (e.g., 0.2) during inference to ensure more deterministic and precise responses.
- C. Include domain-specific financial terms in the prompt-tuning data to help the model specialize in accurate financial advice generation.
- D. Increase the number of layers fine-tuned in the model to capture deeper contextual information from financial data.
- E. Use a beam search decoding algorithm with a large beam width to generate a variety of response candidates for each query.

Answer: B,C

NEW QUESTION # 338

You are deploying a generative AI model for a financial services company. The model is responsible for automating customer support and providing recommendations. Due to the sensitive nature of financial data, the company emphasizes the need for robust

AI governance.

What governance mechanism should you prioritize to ensure compliance with data privacy regulations and maintain trust in AI outputs?

- A. Regularly retraining the model to avoid performance degradation due to data drift.
- B. Ensuring model version control to track changes and updates made to the model during the deployment process.
- C. Implementing role-based access control (RBAC) to restrict who can interact with the model.
- D. Using AI explainability techniques to make the model's decisions transparent to regulators and customers.

Answer: D
