AVIXA Certified Technology Specialist Sample Questions (Q13-Q18):

NEW QUESTION # 13
Which of the following is a MAJOR consideration for implementing AVoIP?

- A. it requires the use of a fiber backbone
- B. it prohibits virtual architecture rearrangement
- C. it requires an understanding of compression, image quality, and latency
- D. it restricts sources from being accessed from anywhere

Answer: C

Explanation:
AVoIP (Audio Video over IP) involves transmitting AV signals over network infrastructure, which necessitates an understanding of compression, image quality, and latency to ensure signal integrity and performance. These factors are crucial in configuring networks that meet the requirements for high-quality, low-latency AV distribution.
CTS Technology Specialist ReferenceCTS training materials highlight the importance of understanding network protocols, compression methods, and latency impacts when implementing AVoIP systems for optimal performance.

NEW QUESTION # 14
In sound, amplitude is perceived as

- A. pitch
- B. loudness
- C. tone
- D. frequency

Answer: B

Explanation:
Amplitude refers to the strength or intensity of a sound wave and is directly related to how loud the sound is perceived. The greater the amplitude, the louder the sound. Pitch (Option A) relates to frequency, not amplitude, while tone (Option B) is more about the quality or character of sound. Frequency (Option D) determines the pitch, not the loudness.

NEW QUESTION # 15

During an initial meeting with a prospective client regarding an audiovisual project, it is important to understand the customer's method of procurement in order to avoid.

- A. designing the system beyond the budgetary constraints of the client.
- B. making commitments with regard to delivery times for equipment.
- C. expending time and resources designing a project that may ultimately go to bid (tender).
- D. missing some of the important components that will be included in the final project.
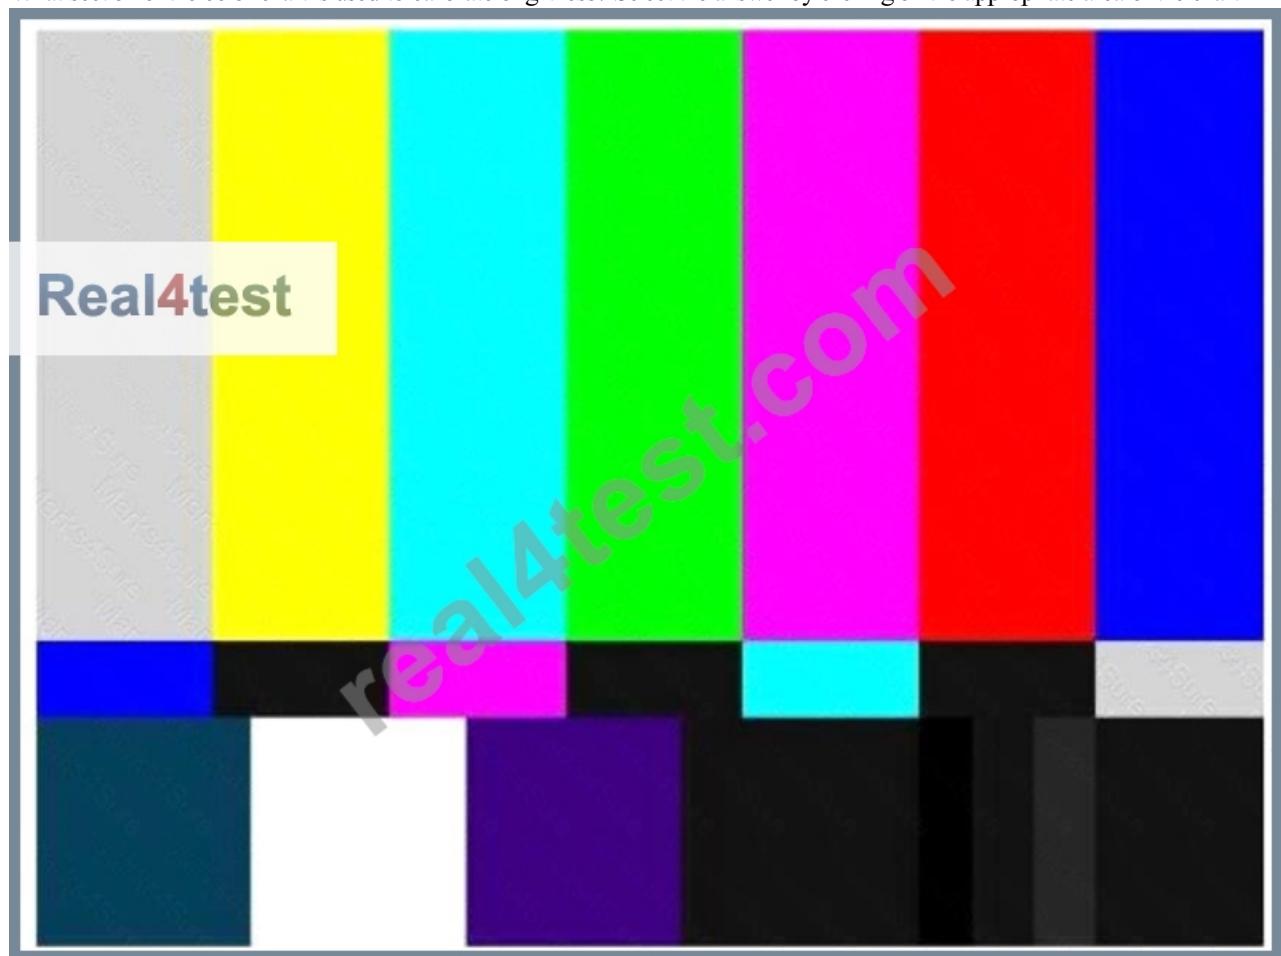

Answer: C

Explanation:
Understanding the client's procurement method is crucial to determine whether the project will go to a competitive bid. This awareness helps avoid wasting resources on a design that may not be directly awarded and instead go through a bidding process, which could result in another firm being chosen.
CTS Technology Specialist Reference
The CTS curriculum emphasizes the importance of clarifying procurement processes early to ensure alignment with project scope and avoid unnecessary design work that might not be retained.
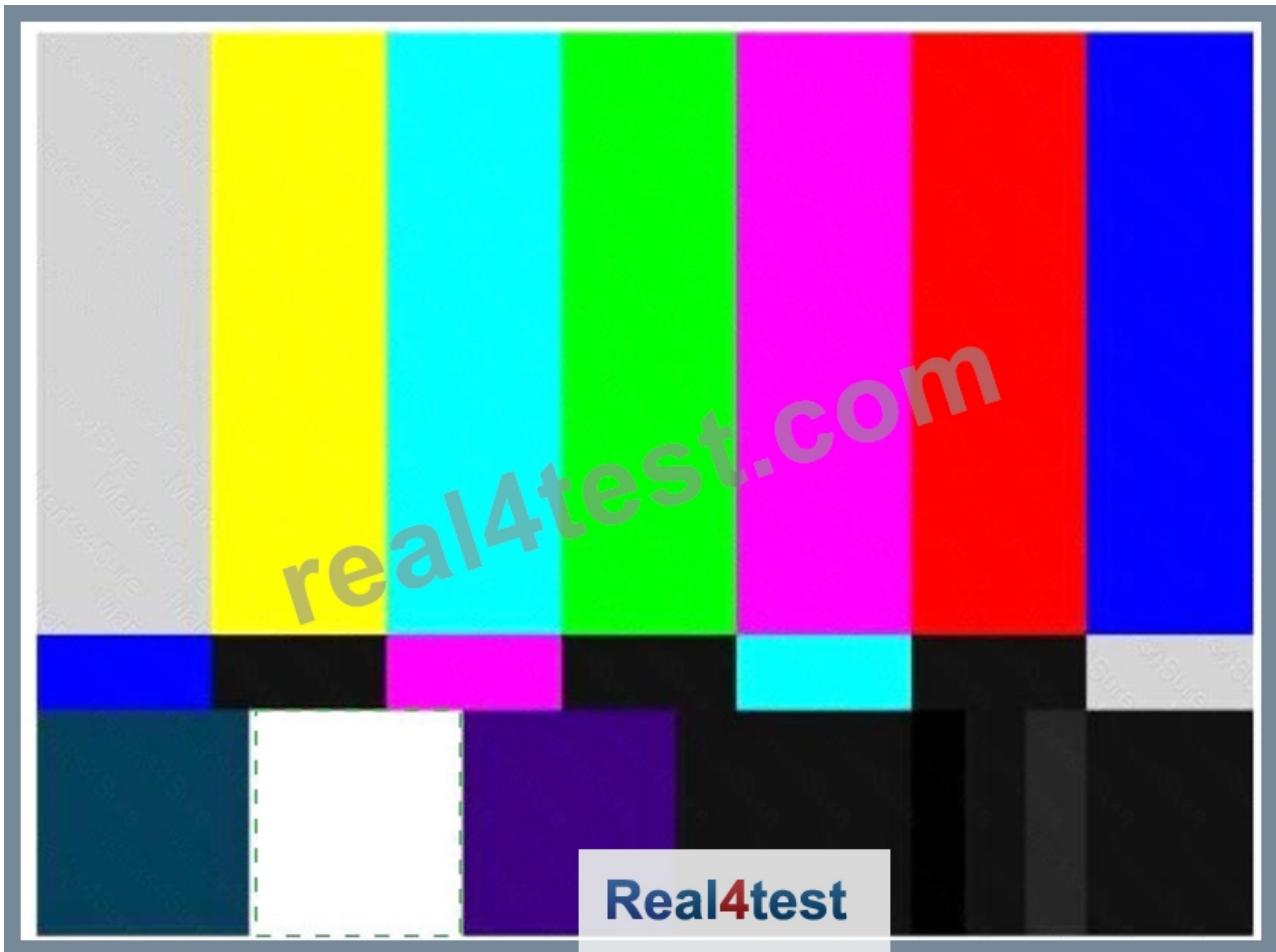

NEW QUESTION # 16

What section of the color chart is used to calibrate brightness? Select the answer by clicking on the appropriate area of the chart

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

The section with the grayscale bars (bottom row, from white to black)

Brightness calibration is typically done using the grayscale section of a color chart. The grayscale bars provide a range of luminance levels from white to black, allowing the calibration process to adjust the display so that each shade is distinct and accurately represented. Proper calibration ensures that the display shows details in both bright and dark areas of the image, achieving the correct overall brightness.

NEW QUESTION # 17

Company information, statement of work, drawings, and bill of materials are presented to the customer as what set of documents?

- A. request for quote
- B. request for proposal
- C. contract documents
- D. bid packet (response)

Answer: D

Explanation:

Company information, statement of work, drawings, and bill of materials are presented to the customer as a bid packet (response). This set of documents is used to respond to a request for proposal (RFP) and provides detailed information about how the contractor intends to meet the project requirements. Axis Technology Specialist documentation emphasizes the importance of a comprehensive bid packet to communicate the scope, approach, and cost of a project to the client.
