Google Data Engineer Sample Questions (Q25-Q30):

NEW QUESTION # 25

MJTelco needs you to create a schema in Google Bigtable that will allow for the historical analysis of the last 2 years of records. Each record that comes in is sent every 15 minutes, and contains a unique identifier of the device and a data record. The most common query is for all the data for a given device for a given day. Which schema should you use?

- A. Rowkey: date#device_id Column data: data_point
- B. Rowkey: data_point Column data: device_id, date
- C. Rowkey: device_id Column data: date, data_point
- D. Rowkey: date#data_point Column data: device_id
- E. Rowkey: date Column data: device_id, data_point

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 26

You need to create a data pipeline that copies time-series transaction data so that it can be queried from within BigQuery by your data science team for analysis. Every hour, thousands of transactions are updated with a new status. The size of the initial dataset is 1.5 PB, and it will grow by 3 TB per day. The data is heavily structured, and your data science team will build machine learning models based on this data. You want to maximize performance and usability for your data science team. Which two strategies should you adopt? Choose 2 answers.

- A. Copy a daily snapshot of transaction data to Cloud Storage and store it as an Avro file
- B. Develop a data pipeline where status updates are appended to BigQuery instead of updated.
- C. Preserve the structure of the data as much as possible.
- D. Denormalize the data as much as possible.
- E. Use BigQuery's support for external data sources to query.
- F. Use BigQuery UPDATE to further reduce the size of the dataset.

Answer: A,B

NEW QUESTION # 27

Which of these is not a supported method of putting data into a partitioned table?

- A. If you have existing data in a separate file for each day, then create a partitioned table and upload each file into the appropriate partition.
- B. Create a partitioned table and stream new records to it every day.
- C. Run a query to get the records for a specific day from an existing table and for the destination table, specify a partitioned table ending with the day in the format "$YYYYMMDD".
- D. Use ORDER BY to put a table's rows into chronological order and then change the table's type to "Partitioned".

Answer: D

Explanation:

You cannot change an existing table into a partitioned table. You must create a partitioned table from scratch. Then you can either stream data into it every day and the data will automatically be put in the right partition, or you can load data into a specific partition by using "$YYYYMMDD" at the end of the table name. NEW QUESTION # 28

An online retailer has built their current application on Google App Engine. A new initiative at the company mandates that they extend their application to allow their customers to transact directly via the application.

They need to manage their shopping transactions and analyze combined data from multiple datasets using a business intelligence (BI) tool. They want to use only a single database for this purpose. Which Google Cloud database should they choose?

- A. BigQuery
- B. Cloud Datastore
- C. Cloud BigTable
- D. Cloud SQL

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 29

What Dataflow concept determines when a Window's contents should be output based on certain criteria being met?

- A. OutputCriteria
- B. Sessions
- C. Triggers
- D. Windows

Answer: C

Explanation:

Triggers control when the elements for a specific key and window are output. As elements arrive, they are put into one or more windows by a Window transform and its associated WindowFn, and then passed to the associated Trigger to determine if the Window's contents should be output.
