NCLEX National Council Licensure Examination(NCLEX-RN) Sample Questions (Q562-Q567):

NEW QUESTION # 562

A 15-year-old female adolescent is frequently breaking the rules of the unit. She has left the unit and was found smoking in the bathroom and spending a large amount of time in the male ward. Which statement by the nurse would best explain to the teenager why she must follow the rules of the unit?

- A. "You are not being fair to the other clients by getting them involved in your deviant behavior."
- B. "If you do not follow the rules, you will be transferred to the closed, locked unit."
- C. "It is not easy, but the rules must be followed so that everyone can get a fair chance."
- D. "Break the rules, all you want, but don't get caught again!"

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

(A) This statement acknowledges that it is difficult but is not threatening or punitive. (B) This statement is threatening and describes specific punishment for further deviant behavior. (C) This response elicits shame by blaming her for involving others. (D) This response gives her permission to break the rules but indicates that getting caught is wrong.

NEW QUESTION # 563

A 7-year-old child is brought to the ER at midnight by his mother after symptoms appeared abruptly. The nurse's initial assessment reveals a temperature of 104.5°F (40.3°C), difficulty swallowing, drooling, absence of a spontaneous cough, and agitation. These symptoms are indicative of which one of the following?

- A. Acute epiglottitis
- B. Acute tracheitis
- C. Acute laryngotracheobronchitis
- D. Acute spasmodic croup

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

(A) Clinical manifestations of acute tracheitis include a 2-3 day history of URI, croupy cough, stridor, purulent secretions, high fever. (B) Clinical manifestations of spasmodic croup include a history of URI, croupy cough, stridor, dyspnea, low-grade fever, and a slow progression. The age group most affected is 3 months to 3 years. (C) Three clinical observations have been found to be predictive of epiglottitis: the presence of drooling, absence of spontaneous cough, and agitation. Epiglottitis has a rapid onset that is accompanied by high fever and dysphagia. (D) Clinical manifestations of acute laryngotracheobronchitis (LTB) include slow onset with a history of URI, low-grade fever, stridor, brassy cough, and irritability.

NEW QUESTION # 564

What is the appropriate nursing action for a child with increased intracranial pressure?

- A. Child lying flat
- B. Head turned to side
- C. Frequent visitation for stimulation
- D. Head of bed elevated 45 degrees with child's head maintained in a neutral position

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

(A) Elevation of head of bed and neutral head position promote drainage of cerebrospinal fluid. (B) Flat position increases intracranial pressure and impedes cerebrospinal fluid drainage. (C) Head turned to either side impedes cerebrospinal fluid drainage.

(D) Child should be in a calm, quiet environment with minimal stimulation.

NEW QUESTION # 565

A client is admitted to the hospital with a diagnosis of aplastic anemia and placed on isolation. The nurse notices a family member entering the room without applying the appropriate apparel. The nurse will approach the family member using the following information as a basis for discussion:

- A. The risks of exposure of the visitor to infectious organisms is great.
- B. The client is at extreme risk of acquiring infections.
- C. Hospital regulations mandate that everyone in the facility adhere to appropriate codes.
- D. Adherence to the guidelines are the latest Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommendations on use of protective apparel.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

(A) Although clients with a compromised immune system may acquire infections, the primary emphasis is on protecting the client. (B, D) Most people are aware of the guidelines once they see posted signs, so quoting regulations is not likely to result in consistent adherence to regulations. (C) Clients with aplastic anemia have white cell counts of 2000 or lower, making them more vulnerable to infections from others.

NEW QUESTION # 566

Which of the following procedures is necessary to establish a definitive diagnosis of breast cancer?

- A. Thermography
- B. Mammography
- C. Breast tissue biopsy
- D. Diaphanography

Answer: C

Explanation:

Section: Questions Set A

Explanation:

(A) Diaphanography, also known as transillumination, is a painless, noninvasive imaging technique that involves shining a light source through the breast tissue to visualize the interior. It must be used in conjunction with a mammogram and physical examination. (B) Mammography is a useful tool for screening but is not considered a means of diagnosing breast cancers. (C) Thermography is a pictorial representation of heat patterns on the surface of the breast. Breast cancers appear as a "hot spot" owing to their higher metabolic rate. (D) Biopsy either by needle aspiration or by surgical incision is the primary diagnostic technique for confirming the presence of cancer cells.
