Microsoft AI Transformation Leader Sample Questions (Q43-Q48):

NEW QUESTION # 43

For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

Answer Area

* Retrieval Augmented Generation RAG requires model fine-tuning. Answer: No

* Retrieval Augmented Generation RAG is helpful when you need a generative AI solution that can access current, verifiable information. Answer: Yes

* Retrieval Augmented Generation RAG enables you to get more relevant responses based on your organization's documents without retraining the base model. Answer: Yes RAG is an architecture pattern that improves generative AI responses by retrieving relevant information from external knowledge sources (for example, a document index, database, or knowledge base) and injecting that information into the model's prompt/context at runtime.

* No - RAG does not inherently require fine-tuning. Fine-tuning changes the model weights. RAG, instead, keeps the base model as-is and augments it with retrieved context. Fine-tuning can be complementary (for style, domain tone, or specialized tasks), but it is not required for RAG to work.

* Yes - RAG is especially valuable when you need current and verifiable information because the retrieval layer can pull the latest approved content (updated policies, product specs, incident runbooks) and provide it to the model. This reduces hallucinations and makes answers traceable to known sources.

* Yes - A major benefit of RAG is improved relevance to organizational documents without retraining. Instead of rebuilding the model whenever documents change, you update the underlying content store/index; the model then generates responses grounded in the retrieved passages, producing answers that align with your organization's latest information and terminology.

NEW QUESTION # 44

A marketing team wants to automatically create product descriptions and campaign email drafts. Which generative AI capability best meets this business need?

- A. Image classification
- B. Predictive demand forecasting
- C. Natural language content generation
- D. Anomaly detection

Answer: C

Explanation:

Natural language content generation is correct because Natural language content generation enables the creation of product descriptions, emails, blogs, and other written materials using prompts. This directly supports marketing automation and content scaling.

- A. Replacing enterprise identity providers
- B. Generating contextual responses and content using organizational data
- C. Performing network packet inspection

NEW QUESTION # 46

- For each of the following statements, select Yes if the statement is true. Otherwise, select No. NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

Answer Area

* Azure Vision in Foundry Tools can extract and analyze key phrases from PDF files. Answer: No

* Azure Vision in Foundry Tools can generate images based on natural language descriptions. Answer:

No

* Azure Document Intelligence in Foundry Tools can be used to automate the processing of invoices and credit notes. Answer: Yes

* No - Azure Vision in Foundry Tools focuses on computer vision tasks such as image analysis and OCR (reading text from images and documents). While it can extract text from scanned PDFs via OCR, key phrase extraction is a natural language processing capability provided by Azure Language in Foundry Tools, not Azure Vision. Key phrase extraction analyzes text to identify main concepts, which is a different service family than vision.

* No - Azure Vision can analyze existing images (for example, generate captions/descriptions of an image), but generating new images from a text prompt is a generative model capability (for example, DALL E through Azure OpenAI/Azure AI Foundry model endpoints), not an Azure Vision feature.

Vision describes what it "sees"; it doesn't synthesize new images from natural language.

* Yes - Azure Document Intelligence in Foundry Tools is designed for intelligent document processing

, including automating extraction of structured fields from financial documents. Microsoft provides prebuilt models for invoices and supports custom extraction for similar document types, which makes it suitable for automating workflows involving invoices and credit-note style documents (field extraction, validation, routing).

NEW QUESTION # 47

- Select the answer that correctly completes the sentence.

The Analyst agent in Microsoft 365 Copilot _____.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

uses structured data and provides insights by using text, charts, tables, and other visuals.

The Analyst agent in Microsoft 365 Copilot is positioned as a "data analysis" reasoning agent that helps users work through structured information (for example, tables, spreadsheets, and other dataset-like inputs) and then produces analytical outputs. The best completion is the option stating it "uses structured data and provides insights by using text, charts, tables, and other visuals," because that describes the hallmark outcome of analyst-style work: summarizing patterns, highlighting key drivers, and presenting results in formats that business users can act on. Analyst-style assistance typically includes exploring the data, identifying trends and anomalies, comparing segments, and explaining findings clearly—often accompanied by tables and visual representations that make the insights easier to consume.

The other dropdown options align to different use cases: "compiles background research for a new market or initiative" describes a research-oriented agent, "generate audio summaries" is a media summarization function, and "answer employee FAQs" describes a conversational knowledge assistant. Analyst is the one most directly associated with structured-data interpretation and producing a mix of narrative plus analytical artifacts (tables/charts) to communicate conclusions.
