NEW QUESTION # 61

Exhibit.

Which action should the administrator take to troubleshoot the error shown in the exhibit?

- A. Check the Azure subnet delegation status.
- B. Check the PC VNet is peered correctly.
- C. Check the Azure AD App registration Client Secret.
- D. Check the NC2 organization permissions.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To troubleshoot the error shown in the exhibit where Azure credentials are not valid and the creation of the resource group failed, the administrator should:

Verify that the Azure AD App registration has been correctly configured, especially the Client Secret.

Ensure that the Client Secret is valid, has not expired, and matches what has been entered in the configuration.

This step is crucial because an invalid or expired Client Secret would prevent the validation of Azure credentials and the creation of necessary resources.

NEW QUESTION # 62

Exhibit.

An administrator is trying to create an NC2 cluster in Azure, but does not see the required region in the drop-down list. Which two steps could the administrator take to resolve this issue? (Choose two.)

- A. Check the list of regions specified under the NC2 organization cloud account.
- B. Ensure that the Azure region is whitelisted for use by Microsoft in the subscription.
- C. Check the Azure subscription is created in the correct region.
- D. Check the NC2 Billing console to ensure the region is listed.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Check the list of regions specified under the NC2 organization cloud account: The list of available regions in the NC2 console might be restricted based on the configuration of the cloud account associated with the NC2 organization. Verifying this list ensures that the desired region is included and available for cluster creation.

Ensure that the Azure region is whitelisted for use by Microsoft in the subscription: Sometimes, specific regions need to be explicitly enabled or whitelisted in the Azure subscription for certain services. This step ensures that the required region is permitted for use within the Azure subscription, allowing the NC2 cluster to be created in that region.

NEW QUESTION # 63

An administrator must ensure that certain NC2 VMs can access Azure resources. The NC2 VM traffic must not traverse the internet.

How would the administrator achieve this?

- A. By creating an Azure Private Endpoint for VMs in a Delegated Subnet
- B. By creating an Azure Private Endpoint for VMs in a No-NAT network via vWAN.
- C. By creating an Azure Private Endpoint for VMs in the host-mgmt subnet.
- D. By creating an Azure Private Endpoint for VMs in a NAT network via vWAN.

Answer: A

Explanation:

* Azure Private Endpoint: A Private Endpoint provides secure connectivity to Azure resources by enabling private access through the Azure backbone network. This ensures that the traffic does not traverse the internet, providing enhanced security and performance.

* Delegated Subnet: By creating an Azure Private Endpoint for VMs in a delegated subnet, the administrator ensures that the VMs can access Azure resources directly and securely without using the public internet.
