Scrum Professional Scrum Product Owner II Sample Questions (Q31-Q36):

NEW QUESTION # 31

Management wants to understand whether a team is effective.

Which of the following measures will help them understand the team's performance? (choose the best answer)

- A. All of the above.
- B. The team's ability to meet schedule release dates.
- C. The team's planned versus actual budget performance.
- D. The change in customer satisfaction measured over time.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 32

Which statements about the Product Backlog are correct? (choose the best two answers)

- A. All Product Backlog items must be displayed under the User Stories form.
- B. The Product Backlog is visible to stakeholders and the Scrum Team.
- C. Only the Product Owner can place items on the Product Backlog.
- D. The Product Backlog eliminates any need for the Developers to speak to stakeholders.
- E. The Product Backlog is ordered by the Product Owner
- F. All Product Backlog Items must be identified before starting the first Sprint.

Answer: B,E

NEW QUESTION # 33

Who determines when it is appropriate to update the Sprint Backlog during a Sprint?

- A. The Scrum Team.
- B. The Product Owner.
- C. The Project Manager.
- D. The Developers.

Answer: D

Explanation:

In Scrum, the Sprint Backlog is a living artifact that evolves throughout the Sprint as the team gains new insights. The responsibility of updating the Sprint Backlog lies exclusively with the Developers, as they are the ones executing the work.

Roles and Responsibilities:

* Developers:

- * They are solely responsible for creating, managing, and updating the Sprint Backlog.
- * They continuously update it as they learn more about the work needed to achieve the Sprint Goal.
- * Any changes, additions, or deletions to the Sprint Backlog are determined by the Developers based on new information.

* Product Owner:

- * The Product Owner is responsible for managing the Product Backlog, not the Sprint Backlog.
- * However, they collaborate with Developers if the scope of the Sprint Backlog needs renegotiation.
- * They prioritize product value but do not directly modify the Sprint Backlog.

* Scrum Team

* The term Scrum Team includes the Developers, Product Owner, and Scrum Master.

* While they collaborate, only the Developers make changes to the Sprint Backlog.

* Project Manager:

- * Scrum does not define a Project Manager role.
- * Traditional project management responsibilities are distributed across the Scrum roles.
- * The Developers are self-organizing, meaning they do not need external direction to update their plan.

Key Scrum Guide Principles Supporting This:

- * The Sprint Backlog is a plan by and for the Developers.
- * The Developers own and manage their work throughout the Sprint.
- * The Sprint Backlog is adapted daily to reflect progress toward the Sprint Goal.
- * No one else, including the Product Owner or Scrum Master, is allowed to modify the Sprint Backlog.

Conclusion:

Only the Developers have the authority to update the Sprint Backlog during a Sprint. This ensures that they maintain ownership of their work and adapt as necessary to successfully achieve the Sprint Goal.

NEW QUESTION # 34

Your product is the market leader in your segment. Your team is continuously releasing new features. The rate that you're releasing features is higher than the rate that the customers can adopt the features. Customers complain that while they are still getting used to a release, a new release will appear. Your Developers have also made you aware that technical debt is accumulating with each release.

As a Product Owner, which would be the best approach? (choose the best answer)

- A. Add customer support staff to help customers with their upgrade challenges.
- B. Start focusing on how to improve the system in order to make releasing better and less risky, even if it means releasing less features.
- C. Slow down the release cycles so customers have more time to catch-up.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 35

What percent of the time should a Product Owner dedicate to the Scrum Team?
(choose the best two answers)

- A. 40%, or more if the stakeholders agree.
- B. Just enough time to keep the Developers from complaining.
- C. Enough time to avoid the waste that is created by delaying answers to the Developers.
- D. As much as the stakeholders want to budget. Business analysts take over the role the rest of the time.
- E. Enough time to ensure that the product Increment is valuable and useful.
- F. 100%.

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

B is correct because the Product Owner is accountable for maximizing the value of the product and the work of the Developers¹, and delaying answers to the Developers can cause waste, rework, and missed opportunities². E is correct because the Product Owner is responsible for ensuring that the product Increment is valuable and useful for the stakeholders and customers³, and this requires close collaboration and feedback with the Scrum Team and the users⁴. A is incorrect because the Product Owner does not need to dedicate 100% of their time to the Scrum Team, as they also have other accountabilities such as engaging with the market, managing the product vision, and aligning with the business strategy⁵. C is incorrect because the Product Owner is not a proxy for the stakeholders, and they should not delegate their role to business analysts or anyone else. D is incorrect because the Product Owner does not need the approval of the stakeholders to decide how much time they spend with the Scrum Team, as they are empowered to make the best decisions for the product. F is incorrect because the Product Owner should not base their time allocation on the complaints of the Developers, but on the value and quality of the product.
