NEW QUESTION # 21

Which two aspects are applicable to Page Includes? (2 answers)

- A. If a controller is used for an included page, then a merge variable must be present on the page.
- B. Page Includes must be assigned to an OOTB Page, i.e. Home, Product Detail, etc., and enabled

- C. Standard Visualforce controls such as apex:form should not be used within a page include
- D. Page Includes can be configured as Body Includes Begin.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Two aspects that are applicable to Page Includes are:

- * Standard Visualforce controls such as apex:form should not be used within a page include. This is because the page include is rendered inside an existing Visualforce page that already has a form element. Using another form element inside the page include will cause conflicts and errors. Instead, the page include should use HTML elements or custom components that do not require a form element.
- * Page Includes can be configured as Body Includes Begin. This means that the page include will be rendered at the beginning of the body section of the page, before any other content or widgets. This can be useful for adding some custom content or functionality that applies to the whole page, such as a banner, a modal, or a script. NEW QUESTION # 22

Which Global JavaScript Object should be extended when writing custom Remote Actions?

- A. CCRZ.RemoteInvocation
- B. CCRZ
- C. CCRZ.cc
- D. CCRZ.cc_CallContext

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Global JavaScript Object that should be extended when writing custom Remote Actions is CCRZ.cc. This object contains all the Remote Actions that are defined in the cloudcraze managed package, which can be overridden or extended by subscriber code. The object also provides a mechanism for registering custom Remote Actions that can be invoked by the user interface components. For example, `CCRZ.cc.customAction = function(params, callback){ // do something }` will define a custom Remote Action named customAction that can be called by `CCRZ.cc.customAction(params, callback)`. NEW QUESTION # 23

Universal Containers (UC) is ready to build a tax provider class using the interfaces available in the Buyer Experience SDK. When creating a tax provider, what are three things that a developer should consider first?

- A. Steps to complete in the Tax Service
- B. Whether to use JSON or XML
- C. How to handle results
- D. What to implement
- E. What events to fire in the Lightning web component

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

When creating a tax provider, three things that a developer should consider first are: steps to complete in the tax service, how to handle results, and what to implement. Steps to complete in the tax service are the actions that the developer needs to perform to connect to and use the third-party tax service provider's API or service. These steps may include authentication, authorization, request formatting, response parsing, error handling, and logging. How to handle results are the actions that the developer needs to perform to process and apply the tax calculation results from the tax service to the cart or order. These actions may include creating or updating cart items with type of Charge and charge type of Tax, applying tax adjustments or exemptions, and displaying tax amounts and details on the storefront. What to implement are the methods that the developer needs to define in their custom Apex class that implements the `sfdc_checkout.TaxCalculations` interface. The interface provides methods for customizing the tax calculation logic for a cart or an order, such as `getTaxRatesAndRules`, `applyTaxAmountsAndAdjustments`, and `handleTaxErrorsAndExceptions`. Whether to use JSON or XML is not something that the developer should consider first, as it is not a critical or relevant factor for creating a tax provider. It may depend on the format that the tax service provider supports or prefers, but it does not affect the overall functionality or performance of the tax integration. What events to fire in the Lightning web component is not something that the developer should consider first either, as it is not related to creating a tax provider. It may be an optional feature that the developer can add to enhance the user interface or user experience of their storefront, but it does not affect the core logic or functionality of the tax integration. NEW QUESTION # 24

What are three advantages of using ccLog over the Salesforce standard System.debug class? (3 answers)

- A. ccLog can debug syntax errors found in the JavaScript.
- B. There is no need to manually set a cookie to debug with the Site Guest User.
- C. Append #ccLog=<Logging Token Name> to the end of the storefront URL in order to get logs in the inspector console.
- D. There is no need to create a User Trace Flag.
- E. There is no need to use string concatenation to easily tag log statements with a subject.

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:

Three advantages of using ccLog over the Salesforce standard System.debug class are:

* There is no need to use string concatenation to easily tag log statements with a subject. ccLog allows passing a subject parameter to the log method, which will prepend the subject to the log message. For example, ccLog.log('This is a message', 'Subject') will log [Subject] This is a message.

* There is no need to create a User Trace Flag. ccLog can be enabled by setting the value of CO.logToken to true in CCAdmin, which will activate logging for all users who access the storefront.

* There is no need to manually set a cookie to debug with the Site Guest User. ccLog can be enabled for the Site Guest User by appending #ccLog=<Logging Token Name> to the end of the storefront URL in order to get logs in the inspector console. For example, <https://my-storefront.com/#ccLog=debug> will enable logging for the Site Guest User with the debug level. Salesforce References: B2B Commerce and D2C Commerce Developer Guide, Logging
