- A. Install the Falcon package, use falconctl to license the sensor, approve the system extension, grant the sensor Full Disk Access
- B. Grant the Falcon Package Full Disk Access, install the Falcon package, use falconctl to license the sensor
- C. Install the Falcon package passing it the installation token in the command line
- D. Grant the Falcon Package Full Disk Access, install the Falcon package, load the Falcon Sensor with the command 'falconctl stats'

Answer: A

The Falcon package contains the sensor binary and the kernel extension, which can be installed by double-clicking on it or using a command-line tool such as installer. The falconctl tool is a command-line utility that allows you to configure and manage the sensor on MacOS systems. You can use falconctl to license the sensor by providing your Customer ID (CID) and optionally your Sensor Group ID (SGID). After licensing the sensor, you need to approve the system extension in the Security & Privacy settings of your system preferences, which will require a restart. Finally, you need to grant the sensor Full Disk Access in the Privacy settings of your system preferences, which will allow the sensor to monitor and protect your files and folders.

- C. Data such as process records are kept for a shorter time than event data
- D. You will not be able to search event data into the past beyond your retention period
