CWNP Certified Wireless Analysis Professional Sample Questions (Q108-Q113):

NEW QUESTION # 108

Where, in a protocol analyzer, would you find an indication that a frame was transmitted as part of an A-MPDU?

- A. A-MPDU flag in the Frame Control Field
- B. The HT Operation Element
- C. The Aggregation flag in the Radio Tap Header
- D. A-MPDU flag in the QoS Control Field

Answer: C

Explanation:

In a protocol analyzer, you would find an indication that a frame was transmitted as part of an A-MPDU by looking at the Aggregation flag in the Radio Tap Header. The Radio Tap Header is a pseudo-header that is added by some wireless capture devices to provide additional information about the physical layer characteristics of a frame. The Aggregation flag is one of the fields in this header, and it indicates whether the frame belongs to an A-MPDU or not. If the flag is set to 1, it means that the frame is part of an A-MPDU; if it is set to 0, it means that the frame is not part of an A-MPDU . NEW QUESTION # 109

When would you expect to see a Reassociation Request frame'

- A. Every time a STA roams
- B. Only when a STA roams back to an AP it has previously been associated with
- C. Every time a STA associates to an AP to which it has previously been associated
- D. Only when a STA is using FT roaming

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Reassociation Request frame is sent every time a STA roams from one AP to another within the same ESS.
A Reassociation Request frame is similar to an Association Request frame, but it also contains the BSSID of the current AP that the STA is leaving. This allows the new AP to coordinate with the old AP and transfer the STA's context information, such as security keys, QoS parameters, and buffered frames. This way, the STA can maintain its connectivity and session continuity during roaming .

NEW QUESTION # 110

Using a portable analyzer you perform a packet capture next to a client STA and you can see that the STA is associated to a BSS. You observe the STA sending packets to the AP and the AP sending packets to the STA.
Less than 2% of all packets are retransmissions. You move to capture packets by the AP and, while the retry rate is still less than 2%, you now only see unidirectional traffic from the AP to the client. How do you explain this behavior?

- A. The portable analyzer has a lower receive sensitivity than the AP and while it can't capture the packets from the client STA, the AP can receive them OK
- B. There is a transmit power mismatch between the client and the AP and while the client can hear the APs traffic, the AP cannot hear the client
- C. The STA is transmitting data using more spatial streams than the potable analyzer can support
- D. The portable analyzer is too close to the AP causing CCI, blinding the AP to the clients packets

Answer: A

Explanation:

Receive sensitivity is the minimum signal level that a receiver can detect and decode. Different devices may have different receive sensitivity levels depending on their hardware specifications and antenna configurations. In this scenario, the portable analyzer has a lower receive sensitivity than the AP, meaning that it requires a stronger signal to capture the packets from the client STA. The AP, on the other hand, has a higher receive sensitivity and can receive the packets from the client STA even if they have a weaker signal.

This explains why the portable analyzer can only see unidirectional traffic from the AP to the client when capturing near the AP5

NEW QUESTION # 111
You work as an SE for a value-added reseller. A client has an existing deployment of 802.11n Aps and wants to upgrade several BSSs to 802.11ac.
What hardware feature of some enterprise Aps may allow for this without a forklift upgrade?

- A. Adding an 802.11ac module to the existing APs
- B. Simply check the Enable 802.11ac checkbox in the web-based configuration interface
- C. Replace the antennas with 802.11ac antennas
- D. Converting the 802.11n radio to an 802.11ac radio through software

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 112
You suspect an interfere may exist in a BSS that is experiencing sporadic problems. You want to identify and locate the device. The actual device identify is not known.
What tool should be used for this purpose?

- A. Cable tester
- B. Protocol analyzer
- C. Spectrum analyzer
- D. Throughput tester

Answer: C
